A familiar face to many of us our first two years of school was Miss Gwen Teague. A counselor, a helper, a friend, she helped make the adjustment into high school easier. Then, along came junior year and another friendly face came into our lives — that of Mr. Jack Cantrell. History teacher and club advisor, he brought music into our days with his banjo and many songs.

"In the door in '54; Out the gate in '88" has been Gwen Teague's motto for several years now. In her 34 years here, she has served as a P.E. teacher, volleyball coach, swimming coach, head of the P.E. department, counselor, cheerleading advisor, and head counselor. The quality of her volleyball coaching led to a great honor — the Gwen Teague Award — a perpetual trophy given yearly to the best all-around volleyball player.

Miss Teague has been consistently devoted to the students throughout her career. Her dedication was shown in the time she spent with students, above and beyond the confines of her job. "She spends an incredible amount of time with the kids," was Mr. Hatcher's high praise.

Resulting from her efforts to assist those in need, an extraordinary thing has gone on in Miss Teague's behalf. Letters of commendation, from past students, grateful parents, and thankful staff members, arrived often, saying a simple thank you or heaping praise on her unselfishness and hard work. An example of her singlemindedness towards her students — her sabbatical in the '81-'82 school year. She spent this time touring the state colleges and UC schools in order to be better prepared for student's inquiries.

Mr. Jack Cantrell, known to some students as "Cousin Jack," is a living legend here. Since his arrival in 1956, he has taught 39 different subjects, including all levels of Social Studies, most types of math, and some English classes. He was an athletic coach for 8 different teams for a total of 28 years. In a layoff from teaching, he spent five years as a counselor, and one year as Athletic Director. Among his honors received were the Honorary Service Award from the PTA in 1971, Outstanding Secondary Educator of America in 1975, and Outstanding Teacher of Kern County from the Rotary in the '71-'72 school year.

"He's from Wyoming," a statement many people make about this die-hard cowboy. His college alma mater is none other than the University of Wyoming, where he graduated with great honor, and his M.A. was received at Northern Colorado University. "Mr. Cantrell maintains a free and open atmosphere . . . he brings history alive with interesting stories and his use of music."

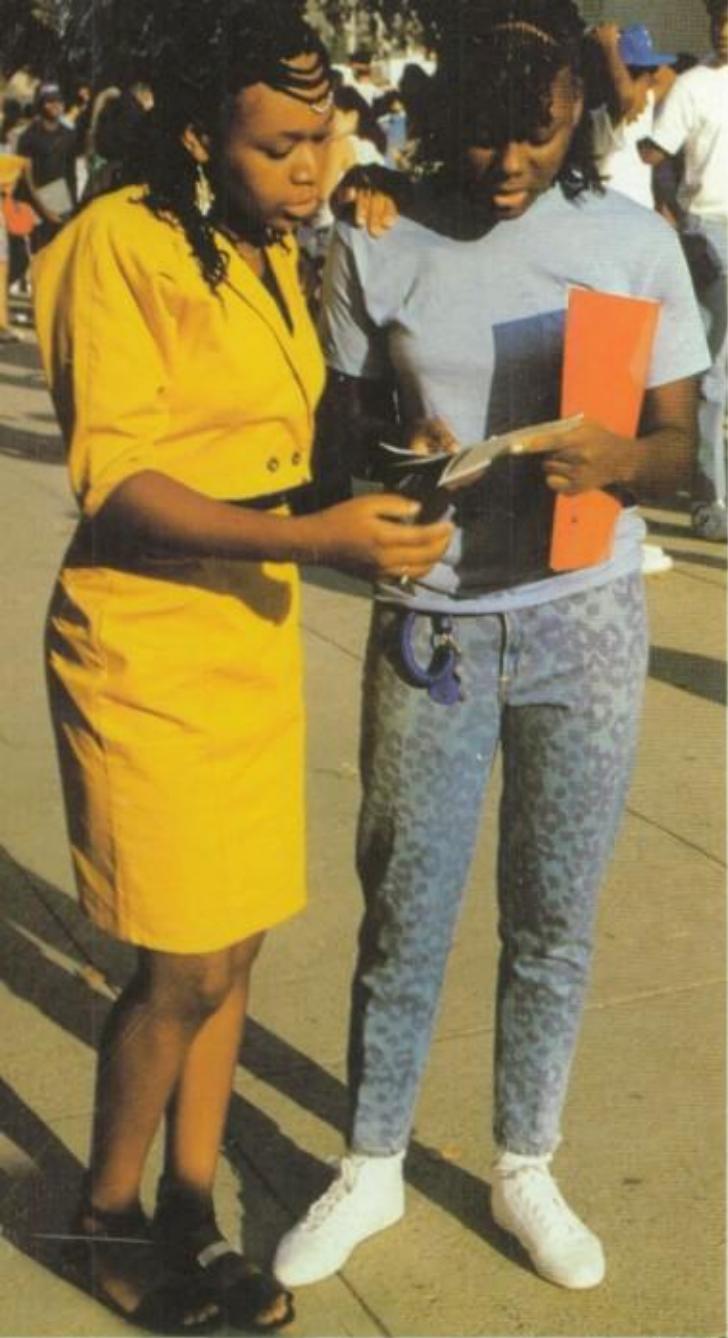

To these individuals this book is dedicated, in an effort to show our gratitude for their hard work and devotion to our school.

Building plans for the

The quest for perfection began last summer, when the jackhammers, cranes, and muscular men were first transported to us. We frolicked our summer away, never dreaming of what would lay in store for us; shopping for the perfect party ensemble, baking ourselves to just the right shade. Even then we were in search of the ideal state of being.

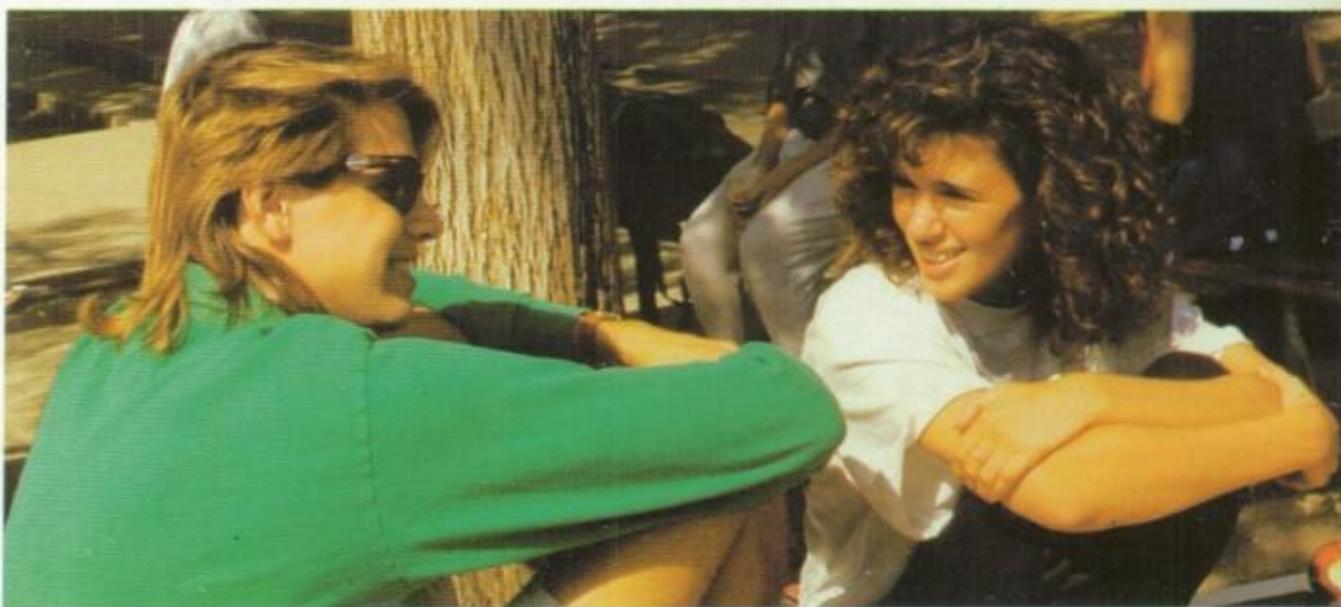

Then it came — total chaos; mauled earth, ear-shattering machinery. This was the sight our eyes were met with as we oh-so-joyfully attended our first day of the school year. Who could these strange men be? Why was our lovely house of education being torn to pieces? We were given little time to fret over this, as we soon discovered the reason for this seeming destruction — RECONSTRUCTION. Yes, right over our heads and under our feet, a total revamping of school life as we once knew it. "Did I miss an earthquake?" was Francesca Ynostroza's reaction to this fiasco while skeptic Kevin Baker felt that they "should have started it about four years ago." campus was slightly marred by the unsightly structures scattered throughout, we understood it was merely a means to an end — that end being a modernized school.

Every day was an adventure — would it be a minimum day? Seventh period activity? It was so hot many students thought school should simply be cancelled altogether. We came fairly close when a water pipe burst in the Hex area and we were sent home at the unheard-of hour of 10:15 a.m. After this came nearly two solid weeks of

We used many methods to achieve our highest goals, be they winning a contest, getting a scholarship, playing on the first string or simply passing a course. Everyone had their own way, some better than others, but all of us had our unique and special routes to BUILDING THE RIGHT COMBINATION.

It all began on September 8 as we scurried off to school to meet friends and face new classes. There we were greeted by nervous freshmen, anxious sophomores, bored juniors, and big bad seniors.

School activities took up a lot of students' time, whether it was sports, working on a float for homecoming or planning an outfit for spirit week. "Sports didn't interfere with my schoolwork, grades come first," explained Roxanne Reyes. Spirit week was a must: Monday was nerd day,

When asked why he dressed the way he did Nate Cooper exclaimed, "I dress to impress."

Every fall hoards of parents and kids searched for the most unique "In Style" clothes for that year, sometimes coming up with great finds and buys, other times coming up with nothing.

When asked why she shopped at Valley Plaza Julie Nord scoffed, "It's the only place in town to shop." For some the Plaza didn't hold the appealing variety of styles that they expected, so they piled into cars with money in hand and sped away to Los Angeles. There they found an endless selection of clothes and styles from the extremely expensive to the outrageously wild. They could have shopped at places like the Garment District for a good buy or Melrose Ave. for the look of the "wildside."

Betty and Bobby Blade portray the

On a chilly night in late October, over a thousand people packed into Memorial Stadium at Bakersfield College to see the Blades take on the Scotsman for Homecoming. For Laura Lee and Raymond Douglas that night meant much more. That was the night that they became Betty and Bobby Blade.

This year's Betty Blade was announced and who else but Miss activity herself, Laura Lee.

Laura's list of activities was outstanding: they ranged from Travel club president her junior year to four year CSF member and the list goes on and on. Laura's sports included volleyball, swimming and diving, and she was excellent in all.

Raymond Douglas was a lettered four year football player and track team member. Raymond was ASBU president this year and has been involved with the Heavy Metal club for four years. Weekdays had a way of taking a toll on everyone and for some the weekend was the cure. Jimmy Sanders said, "I hang out at Carl's Jr. on a Friday night with my friends between going to parties." As for others such as Jill Womble, staying home watching T.V. and talking on the phone with friends was her way of getting over a busy week of school. As for Jennifer Schimnowski, "I party with friends." Weekends were also a time to catch up on homework we just couldn't find time to finish during the week.

Others spent their weekends working instead of playing. They worked to support their many needs and wants. One example was Paul Lopez who worked to support his girlfriend Kama Hoppe. Melissa Crawford worked for money to fix up her car and take a trip to the Bahamas.

"Everywhere kids go they are influenced," declared Kathy Brewer. Everyone took advice from different people and things around them. "We hear so many different opinions no wonder kids are so confused," declared Sandra Bryan.

When should kids start making decisions alone? When should they listen? "Everything is just another decision," scoffed Julie Nord. When asked whose advice should you take. Ernie Levya commented, "No one knows the answer to everything; sometimes you just have to guess."

Everyday you walked out of the house your parents shoved a minor sum of money in your hand to survive on for the next 24 hrs. if you were lucky. What did you spend it on? "I buy a pack of donuts everyday just to survive until lunch," explained Joe Walker.

What about the kids who had to work for their money? Why did they work, what kind of expenses did they have? "work all the time for my spending money. I have to pay for everything; my class ring, my letterman jacket, and just money to survive," complained Christian Gregory — Amanda Moore

The lights went out as the crowd screamed wildly and bunched together. The music belted out from the loudspeakers while the students began to move.

Modern steps made every dance distinct but there was always something that made one dance or dances stand out from the others. "I thought that the dances that Mark Morin D.J.'d were the best because he played such good music," commented Julie Williams.

Aside from the events that happened at dances there were also those persuasive students who had to talk their way in because they forgot their I.D. "One time I thought I was sly and tried to get my friend in with my I.D. and the narc did not fall for it; he took my I.D. away and I never saw it again." Anonymous.

Whether you went to dances to people/watch, dance to the beat of your favorite song, or just to hold up the walls, most students agreed that dances were the place to be. "I always looked forward to dances because it was a good place to get together with friends," commented Kristine Mojica.

A.S.B., it's as easy as 1, 2, 3. Associated Student Body council was truly a meeting of the minds, with its diversified elected student body officers. According to Mr. Hollis Shannon, Dean of Student Activities, "It regulates the activities at the school, provides an outlet for student expression to the administration, and approves all spending of student body funds." In Mr. Shannon's opinion, "They are one of the better councils. Most of them are pretty energetic in wanting to do what's best for E.B." Laura Lee's view of an officer's responsibility was, "Showing up to meetings, giving an opinionated voice, and being able to take orders from Mark."

Homecoming and the canned food drive were only two of the many activities President Mark Morin had to deal with. Among his other duties were calling special elections, running meetings, and of course, getting the donuts.

Advertises. Organizes. SERVES

KEY CLUB: "Community service is what success in Key Club was all about," according to Jeremy Mullings, president of Key Club.

The club helped kids out at the braile center. "It's fun getting out on Friday's once a month and working with the kids. It's real rewarding knowing you can help out." The club also attended convention. It was held at the Hilton in Anaheim. "Our district put it on, which was a big honor," said Jeremy. Key Club also participated in fundraisers. Their best was the kiss-a-pig contest. Carrie Simon

KEYWANETTES: "I've really enjoyed being in Keywanettes. I've met a lot of people from Kiwanis and learned how we can serve the community," said Renee Massey.

Keywanettes' main goal was to contribute to Alzheimer's disease. They sold hats at the annual pheasant hunt, and at Christmas they made stockings for Kiwanis.

Although Kiwanettes did a lot of outside work, their biggest fund raiser was the formal. Renee felt, "That the formal was what drew the most members." — Carrie Simon

I.C.C.: "I.C.C. is different from other clubs. We are not an independent club; we are there to help all the clubs and to support extra activities," stated Mr. Christiansen.

To promote pride and club participation was what I.C.C. strove for. The two big events for I.C.C. were the club fair and the I.C.C. carnival.

Both were a way to help all the clubs raise money and draw members. "I like I.C.C. because you get to learn what all the clubs are about and meet all different kinds of people at East High," commented Julie Williams. — Carrie Simon

Showing her Ford pride, Renee Massey leaped on the back of a rugged Bronco.

Standing by the Ford GT, Renee Massey wishes it could all be hers.

You put your right foot in front and your left foot in back; all it took Amy was a little knack.

Around the world in every WAY

BROCKS DEBBER: "Na, na, na, na, na, na, na, na, hey, hey, hey, goodbye" was the tune that summed up all Brocks Debbers, including Amy Willingham. Due to the store Brocks selling out to Gottschalks, Gottschalks High Debs would be taking over. However, it was still full of fun; from working in the store, traveling to clothing outlets and modeling in fashion shows. Amy said "Fashion shows are really neat, especially the part where you go around the store and pick out anything you want to wear." In parting, Amy's last words were "Be friendly, it pays off." — Sherry Nord.

FORD DIMENSION: "Oh my God, who are you? What are you doing here? Go away! Don't touch me!" screeched Renee Massey when she realized three strangers were in her house. Renee was kidnapped and thrown into a van after being told she was the new Ford Dimension representative. It was a program to get students involved in merchandising along with service projects such as the automall's grand opening and donating food to the needy. To anyone wanting to apply, Renee had some words of advice: "Go for it, we've learned so much." — Sherry Nord TRAVEL: "Hawaii, Puerto Vallarta, ski trips, whale watching, beaches; I love this stuff because I'm a traveling kind of guy." said Craig Neville when asked what he liked about travel club. The trips were arranged by Group Campus Resources. It allowed the travelers to pay the amount required and send it through Mr. Gregor. Once on the trip, the fun never stopped as in Hawaii, Ryan Stranberg and Julie Williams found out. Looking down into the water off a rock three stories high, Ryan yelled, "No gut, no glory" and they made a jump for it. — Sherry Nord

Taking talents to the LIMIT

Health Careers Academy: "The kids bind together like a family. If one of them is sick or has a baby they all want to share in the joy or pain." stated Mrs. Nix

The interest in a medical career is what brought them together. It was an organization open to sophomores in general classes. It was a three year program you followed to get experience for a health career.

The students attended many field trips to clinics and hospitals during the summer; the students also did volunteer work for these medical offices.

La Tolteca: "There are a variety of students all with different ideas." stated Mr. Gonzalez.

The large number of Chicano students made the La Tolteca program successful. The East High program has mingled with other schools in the past.

They enjoyed dances, volleyball, basketball tournaments and conferences in Fresno.

La Tolteca offered grants and scholarships to some of their graduating seniors. One major concern was to get more seniors to go to college and universities. They brought in Chicano speakers from various colleges to show the students what was to be expected.

Commitment to ultimate PERFECTION

And the Blades go marching on . . . The Blade Band looked sharp this year while others were dull in comparison. They performed at all home football games held at Bakersfield College, the Veteran's Day Parade, a spring concert, and held a concert honoring all armed forces, with Mr. Jack Cantrell as the guest conductor. They also took two trips, one to Magic Mountain and the other to a band competition in San Francisco.

Band captain Monty Hill remarked, "In the area of concert band, we improved greatly over the past two years. We probably have one of the best bands in the county."

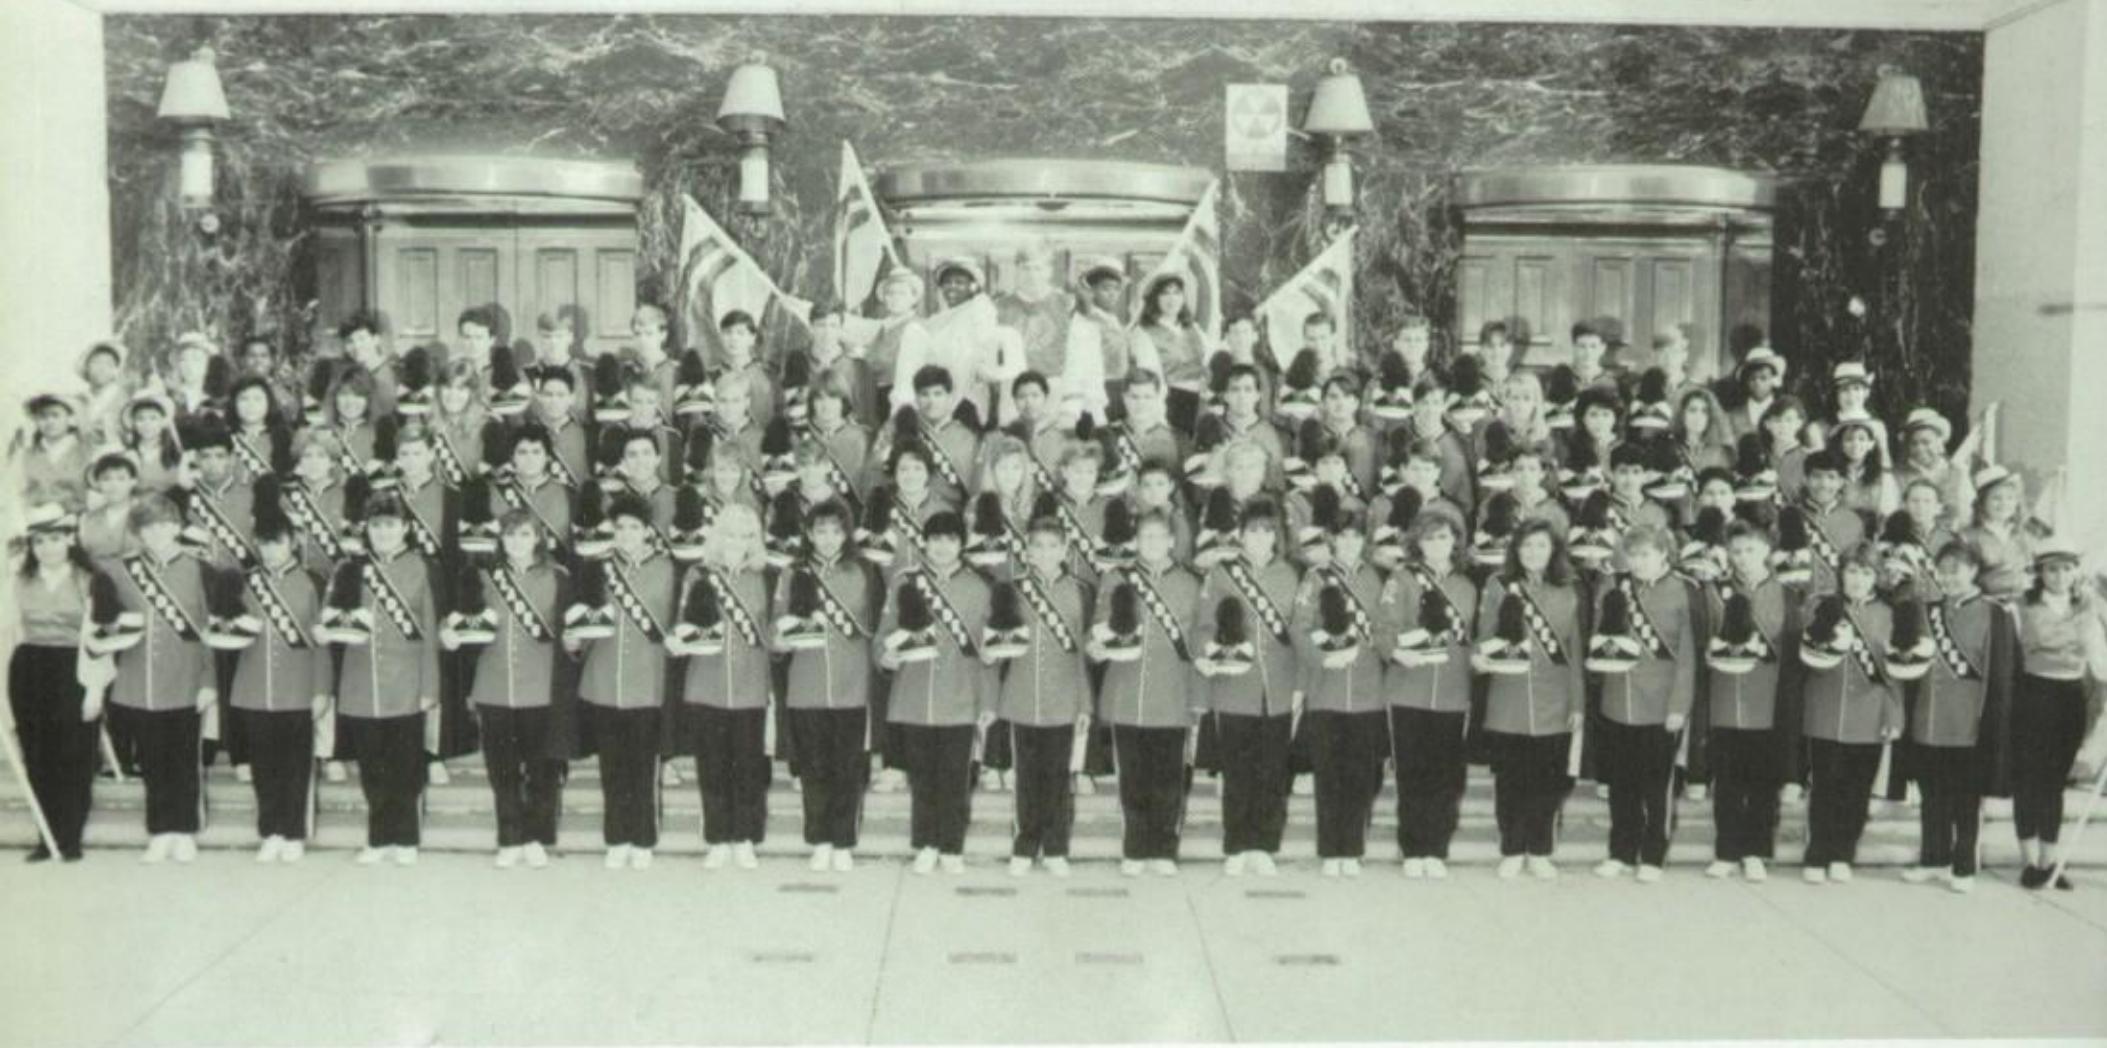

The Blade Band participated in a few fund raisers, such as carwashes, the sale of coupon books, and two pancake breakfasts. The main source of funding was provided by the Band Backers, a recently formed support group made of parents, headed by Mrs. Ramos.

Completing his second year as band director, Ray Ayala left his mark on many students. "Mr. Ayala has inspired us all towards new heights of professionalism that the band never thought possible. He put much time and effort into helping us progress to more difficult music, and a better sound quality," remarked Andrea Canfield.

With the guidance from Mr. Ayala, the band improved greatly over the past two years, not to mention a new look with the purchase of new band uniforms.

Their determination and practice paid off nicely. It could be seen that the band truly marched to the cadence of success. Gaby Ortiz

Many people did not realize just how much time and effort went into the flag team practices; with rehearsals during school and night rehearsals with the band, requiring lots of energy and willingness to learn.

Although the flag team worked closely with the band they developed a style all their own. They performed along with the band at all half-time shows at Bakersfield College. They didn't really receive any other opportunities to perform, aside from the Veterans' Day Parade. The lack of performances did not bring the morale down said Cammy Ellis. I've been on the flag team for four years now. Many people don't realize how much hard work there is when they get involved, but I think it's worth all the time and effort. I had fun and I loved it."

The new flag team director for the 1987-1988 year was an experienced coordinator by the name of Gregg Kerr. Gregg had this to say about the flag team, "There were a lot of do's and don'ts, mostly don'ts."

The flag team consisted of all girls, freshmen through seniors, with a lot of girls returning. They all worked together to achieve their goals. The flag captain for 1987-1988 was Cammy Ellis. The flag team captain was chosen by all the girls involved in flag.

The flag team worked along with the band at all fund raisers, usually providing baked goods at the carwashes.

With hard work and perseverance, the flag team held together to accept the challenges that were set before them. — Gaby Ortiz

Showing true TALENT

JAZZ BAND: It takes talent to become a member of Jazz Band. The volunteer group consisted of about twenty five members from the regular band. Nancy Snyder stated, "Sometimes it's difficult because we don't have a lot of rehearsal time." Even so, they played at the fall play, the spring concert and jazz festivals. Director Mr. Ayala commented, "It was a good year and I enjoyed it very much."

ORCHESTRA: Dedication, organization and cooperation were all qualities of the orchestra directed by Mr. Southwick. The year didn't start well since the annual Pops concert wasn't very successful, but once over that, they had a great year. According to Erika Baradat, "The most memorable performance was the Winter Concert," where they played a different song called "Hannukah."

"The most challenging" stated Mr. Southwick, is combining with Foothill's orchestra." The two schools alone were so small and getting together allowed them to play a greater variety of songs. Songs ranged from pop to classical. Mr. Southwick felt he was working with a terrific group, and said, "There was always something interesting going on."

Bringing together new SOUNDS

CHOIR: "Anyone can sing as long as they will work at it," was Mrs. Lapp's motive. According to her you have to work to be good. Saying you couldn't sing was no excuse.

Each of the choir groups practiced separately once a day as a class. There were four groups: Beginning Choir, Concert Choir, Advanced Women's Ensemble and Chamber Singers.

The choir enjoyed their annual mountain trip. The trip gave the group a chance to get to know each other and rehearse a lot. Besides rehearsing, they hiked and played volleyball while staying at Camp Dixon. Some of the members attended a vocal technique workshop. This was the choir's first year attending and Mrs. Lapp felt it went over very well. In April, the choir toured San Fransico, San Jose, and Santa Cruz. The group performed for others and were judged. Concert Choir seemed to draw more girls which made it heavenly for all the boys. Mrs. Lapp said, "Singing takes more courage than any other activity.

People have to show their talent on stage. At the same time it is incredibly exciting to get up in front of an audience and show them you're good."

Choir finished with a solo concert and graduation. "I've been in many choirs but from what I've seen, the choirs at East have the most spirit in that they're like one big family. We all watch out for each other and work well together as a team," felt Jason McClain. — Carrie Simon

Making the right MOVES

HESS: "Chess is a game of wits and intelligence" exclaimed advisor Mr. Mata. The club stressed the learning and perfecting of techniques and strategies for the upcoming tournaments that were scheduled in the spring. Since only two other schools in Bakersfield contained a chess club, the tournaments were against Bakersfield and South High.

Although this was the clubs' second year as being an organization, its members had doubled in size. Keith Roller, an active member as well as president remarked, "We play it very well!"

HOOP: "Rebound, steal it and pass it is all part of a basketball players vocabulary," according to varsity player and Hoop club member Kevin Robinson. But the club also consisted of those nonplayers who at times liked just to shoot some baskets. What urged Matt Martinez to join? "Since I'm on the team, it's like I have to go out. But anything that has to do with basketball, I'm all for it!" Money raised by shoot-a-thons, car washes and a dance helped send active members to San Luis Obispo summer camp. President Terry Minnoy stated, "Even though we're a big club, we work together and get results!"

EXPO: joined because it looks good on my transcripts to college and for the extra points towards my math class," stated Navan Patel. Club Expo was the new and refreshing name for a club that had been around for quite some time. It was also known as the Math club.

Money raised by selling pies helped take members to math competitions and the six California Math League contests. Senior Rose Girguis remarked, "I enjoy math because it's fun! Since we're an academic club, you don't have to be good at sports, music or art, all you have to do is love math!" — Maria Camarano

Cows — FRIEND or FOE

GERMAN "Cow manure, how gross." That is the funniest moment Ms. Ashmore, German club advisor, recalled hearing one of her 42 members yelling when they stepped down into it on a hike through Hart Park.

Along with different trips, the club had special guest speakers come to the school, such as Mr. Bell's daughter who lived in Germany for 6 years with her husband and two children. She came down once a year with her kids dressed in German costumes to talk not only to the club, but also to all of Ms. Ashmore's classes. They also had dinner at Bit of Germany restaurant, plus a get together at someone's home from BHS which they helped host.

Marc Von Bredow, a foreign exchange student, stated that the club had a lot of activities but his favorite was the trip to Los Angeles where they visited a small German town.

F.F.A. "Cows and plows is not all F.F.A. is about," said advisor Ms. Digenan. Due to misunderstanding, the club attracted only a particular group of students. That is why one main goal was to promote the club and increase membership. Members also hoped to establish support by developing an Ag Boosters group.

Big events were fairs, regional or sectional events, and the state conventions. At these events, members put to use the skills learned in class because each member of F.F.A. was also a member of Ag. class.

On The JOB

STUDENT STORE "It's always busy, especially at the end of the year," stated Mario Thomas, a two year employee at the store. He laughed as he recalled one incident of a student buying a soda and spilling it all over himself before he even got to enjoy it.

Open before school and during 4th and 5th lunch, the store supplied a variety of items for students' supplies, appetites, gifts, or apparel.

Opened and closed by boss, Mrs. Ginny Ross, the store was run by a work force of 12 students. One of the 12, Daniel Armstrong said, "The job experience is good." And another worker, John Morales agreed by saying he loved working in the student store for the experience of working with people.

Working together to see it THROUGH

HEAVY METAL: "Lift one, two, three, stretch four, five, six, jump seven, eight, nine;" these were all sounds which came from the weight room. Who did they come from and why? Well, it was easy; the heavy metal club was working out. According to Howard Newsome "The purpose of the group was to improve their bodies by making them bigger, stronger and faster." Some kids showed their dedication during the Health Club so they could be the best athletes around. — Sherry Nord.

ASBU: Becoming more aware of black history, customs, and current events was typical for any ASBU member. "Black History Week was the best thing that happened all year," said Mr. Ludd. It was a time when negroes celebrated their freedom and honored Martin Luther King for his contribution. Fund raisers such as talent shows with singing, acting and dancing went towards the scholarship that was given to the senior who wanted most to further his education. Effort put into the club was worth it as it resulted in more pride and a sense of unity. — Sherry Nord

SADD: "Just say no, no, no" was the slogan pledged by SADD; Students Against Driving Drunk. They promoted it along with other schools through many posters, word of mouth, red ribbon week and even a T.V. commercial. They also started a program sponsored by Eagle Scouts called safe rides. The program was comprised of setting up a station and phone number where kids could call in and ask for a safe ride home. So remember, next time someone offers you drugs or alcohol, "Just say no!" — Sherry Nord

Dedicated to the commitment of HISTORY: "Fa la la la la, la la la la!!!" Was that the choir you heard? No, it was the History club accompanied by Mr. J. Cantrell on the banjo. Singing was a big part of this club. They often sang ballads, folk songs and various other types of melodies at their meetings which were held at least every other week. And what does a history club discuss at meetings? Things of historical significance that the textbook might not have covered. Every once in a while they had night meetings and rented historical movies.

Being the only high school history club in California, made it unique among clubs. In fact, last June the State Historian Society awarded them with a certificate and a banquet in Ventura for having such an interest in history.

Earning money for scholarships awarded at the end of the year was a main goal. They did this selling Dewars chews and a spring dance. In April the group took a trip to the Los Angeles Space and Engineering museum near UCLA. "It takes a very special group of students to make this kind of club successful," stated Mr. Cantrell. "I think it's the interest in history that unifies them." — Sarah Dominguez

CSF: "It's neat because it is a bunch of intelligent people grouped together," stated Andrea Canfield. What she was talking about was California Scholarship Federation. Keeping up your grades and meeting the requirements of at least three A's and one B each quarter was all it took to be a member of CSF. Club members could receive a gold stole and a gold tassle at graduation if they were members of CSF for four semesters.

Trying to raise money for scholarships, the club sold rooter ribbons and spirit pins, baked red heart shaped Rice Krispie treats for Valentines Day, and had a cookie bake sale and competition in which Wes Grueber and Greg Bergman thought they could make the best cookies.

Something new to the group were monthly intellectual talks at which they discussed interesting topics such as the future of the world. Activities included a trip to Cal Poly SLO. In the spring they took a trip to Yosemite for the annual Seymour competition, where students from all over California competed for scholarships. The last activity was the annual luncheon in honor of the Gold Seal Bearers. Overall, the year was a success. — Sarah Dominguez

Getting the FACTS

"What a crazy year!" laughed advisor Mrs. Kaiser. It was a year of much news, many in-depth features, strong opinions, and some controversy; all written and put together by the Kernal newspaper staff. The year was capped off by a highlight trip to San Francisco to rub elbows with the pros.

With the return of the issue, Andrea Canfield pores over the reconstruction story while Jacob Littleton checks one of his features.

Playing back an interview, Mike asks Paul, "Is this what you interrupted the music for?" Ken appeared not to mind at all.

"But Mrs. Kaiser, my goldfish really did eat my rough draft," exclaimed Patricia Mojica.

Reacting to constructive criticism, Patricia decides to rewrite her feature. Andrea, Nicole, and Jacob experienced the same type of critiques on previous deadlines themselves and knew it for what it was — common procedure for a successful paper.

ACADEMIC DECATHLON Ninth place, best finish ever for Academic Decathlon, the team of students who compete in subjects such as Art, Math, English, Science, Literature, and Personal Interview with other high schools throughout Kern County.

Competition was closed to the public except for the Super Quiz, a topic that all the competitors study and research and then are quizzed on. This year's topic was the "History of Flight" which the students found very difficult.

The Academic Decathlon teams consisted of six members and three alternates, with the exception of the Super Quiz. The competition was held in the West High gym in November with two first places going out to Jennifer Flint and Robin Lyell, both in personal interview. Although the competition was hard, the students felt they were successful in the overall subjects and tried to the very best of their abilities.

MOUTHS, NUMBERS

MESA Santa Barbara and Los Angeles are some of the places that the MESA club visited. MESA was a Mathematical, Engineering, and Science Achievement club that was for minority students. Led by Ms. Morales, MESA held a meeting every week where the approximately 24 members talked about activities.

Requirements to join were a "C" average in all classes and being a member of a minority race.

For several summers MESA had a program where the students attended B.C.

for 2 weeks and lived in the student dorms, taking many different classes beginning at 8:00 in the morning and ending at 9:00 in the evening. Lisa Bonilla, who went both summers, said, "The best thing for me were the dances at the end of the two week stay." For Roxanne Mondragon, MESA was a great club and she added, "I was happy to have the chance to be in it."

FORENSICS Teenagers who enjoyed a good argument or debate as it was called, joined Forensics and traveled to USCA, UOP, Cal Poly, and Stanford to practice their craft.

Made up of approximately 18-20 students, Forensics took the second place sweepstake award for small schools at UOP. They competed against 77 other schools and students.

Mr. McGee, the advisor, said that some of his best students were the ones with big mouths, because they loved to be heard. The advisor also felt that Forensics was like a big family.

Plays: "I enjoy my work with Mr. Gaines, he helps you to loosen up and relax so that you can have fun and feel comfortable while you are performing." stated Tracy Candia

The popularity of Theater East was on the rise. They recruited new members and traveled a great deal to festivals. All the students have a common interest to someday perform on stage." declared

Erica Enriquez.

The big events were a few lip sync competitions, acting festivals and a trip to New York planned for the summer. These activities also helped to promote the club so that other students might become more involved. Theater East had little money but they hoped to expand and get more members.

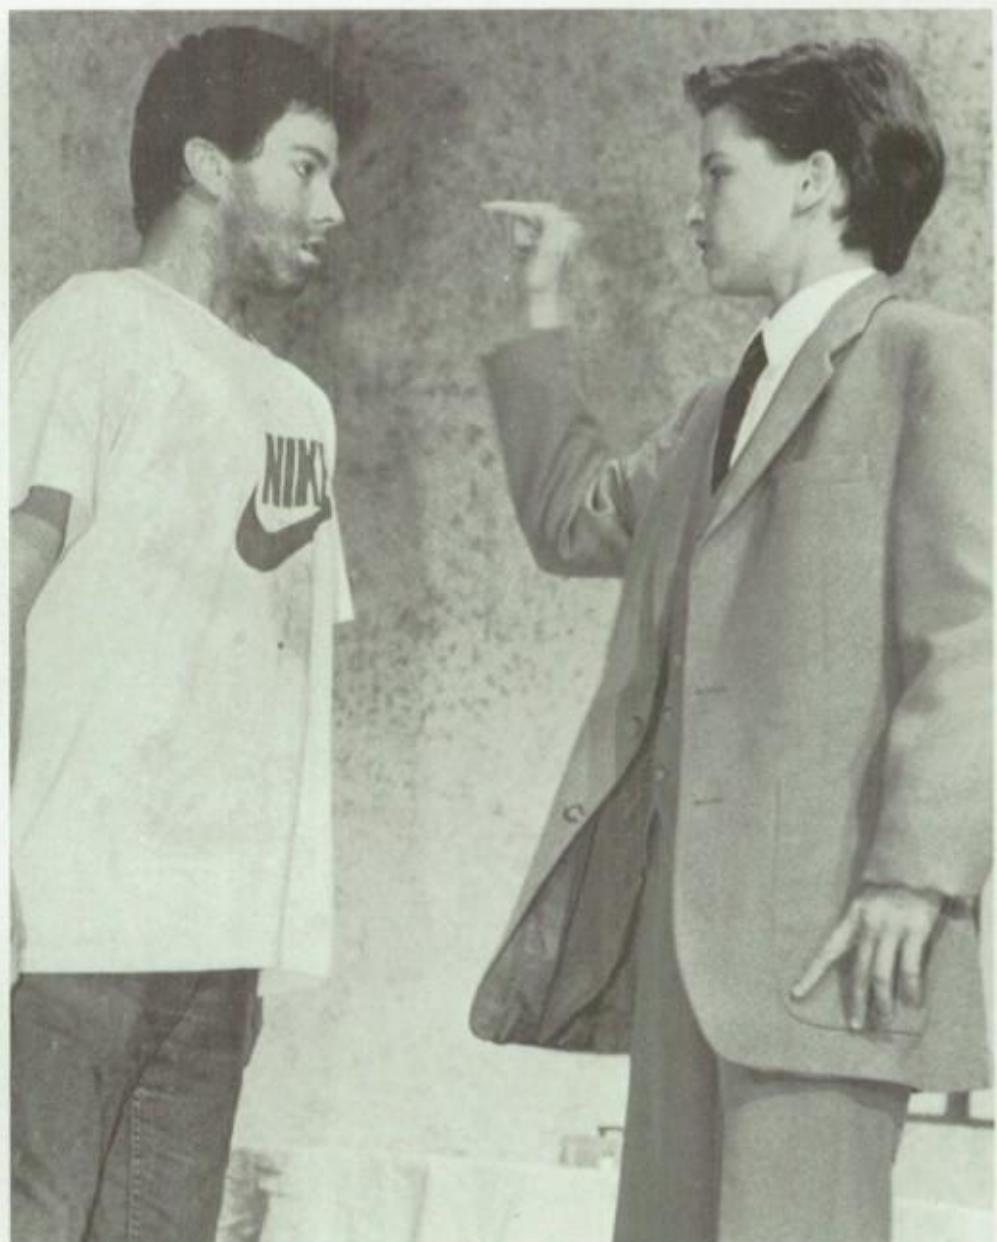

"I never knew Theater East existed until this year. When Mr. Gaines took over there seemed to be more publicity given and you heard a lot more about their activities." exclaimed Tara Lyons. Theater East got a lot of publicity because of the fall and spring plays, The Odd Couple and The Sound of Music. – Amanda Moore

Talent draws APPLAUSE

"Excited," "lightheaded" were a couple of the reactions given by the choir and band organizations about their concert performances under the instruction of Mrs. Lapp and Mr. Ayala. During the winter concert such music as "Carol of the Bells" and "Blow Thou Winter Wind" were heard. Both organizations were pleased with their concert performances. "The turn out of parents, faculty, and students was very positive," said Mrs. Lapp, which really boosted the choir and band to perform extra special. When asked if any students stood out in a performance, the fingers usually pointed at Darla Herrmann as doing exceptionally well. "Darla has a beautiful voice," stated Stacy Shelton.

"I was very pleased with everyone's performance in the concerts," said Mrs. Lapp. Most agreed that choir and band were successful in bringing another year of great musical entertainment. — Jennifer Sullivan

Mastering the highest LAW

The U.S. Constitution — not the most exciting topic, right? For the 30 students in seventh period Honors Government, it was more than exciting — it was a chance to show their expertise on the subject. In the first of 5 annual competitions at Bakersfield College on December 12, they competed against 16 other teams from the city and county. Based on a special textbook about the Constitution only, the competition consisted of panels of 4-6 students presenting prepared speeches to judges. The speeches were compiled from both past and present government happenings, and each based on one of three possible questions. After the speech, the judges asked questions about the talks themselves and pertinent, current issues. Panelists were judged on content and the way they handled the impromptu questions. The winner of this first competition would go to Sacramento in January to represent the 20th Congressional District in the state competition.

Surprising everyone — including themselves — our team came out victorious, and Sacramento bound. "Ecstacy. Everyone was so happy and hugging . . . we knew we'd done well, but it surprised us," was how Jeremy Mullings described the winning moment.

In Sacramento, the competition was intense. Outstanding performances by students such as Jennifer Flint, Patty Perez, and Alex Hart, bolstered confidence. When the awards ceremony arrived, everyone was sure they had won. "When they got to 3rd place everybody held hands . . . we really thought we had a chance," reflected a team member. The M.C. announced the winner and, "A let-down, like shell-shock or something — we just looked at each other and thought 'Where's Gompers?'"

They came to Bakersfield, 4th place in the state, not losers, but winners all the way. — Robin Lyell

Outstanding Seniors

THEY'RE A CUT ABOVE THE REST

Brains and brawn — the perfect description for Greg Bergman. A four-year letterman in football and wrestling, and 3 years of baseball, he was the epitome of the all-around athlete. He also belonged to Fellowship of Christian Athletes, wrestled, and played baseball outside of school.

Despite a busy lifestyle, Greg managed to maintain a 4.285 G.P.A., while also serving as an officer to several clubs, such as History Club and Club Expo. He was selected to attend Freedom's Foundation and Boys' State, and was also an Academic All-American his junior year. Greg planned to attend B.C. and play football, transfer to U.N.L.V., and attend medical school at Stanford.

A prime example of the classic overachiever was Laura Lee. Every year she was involved in student government in such offices as business manager and class president, while also participating in C.S.F., Keywanettes, and Forensics. In addition, she was awarded Bakersfield Junior Miss, and was 2nd runner-up in the state Junior Miss competition.

Laura also made time for sports, playing volleyball and diving in the spring. What Laura is perhaps best known as is Betty Blade, and as our youngest Winter Formal Queen. An active participant in Bell Choir outside of school, Laura's G.P.A. was well over 4.0. She planned to attend U.S.C. and major in business.

Whenever someone needed a job done well, they looked to Paul Hernandez. His constant perfectionism made him a perfect candidate for anything requiring meticulous preparation. An example of this was his involvement in Homecoming due to his position of Senior Vice President. He was selected for the Mock Trial Honor Court, the Student Accreditation Program, and Freedom's Foundation at Valley Forge. He was the 1st chair clarinet, and was selected by the band as captain in his senior year.

Paul's many activities did not deter him from his schoolwork, as he was a member of C.S.F. with a 4.035 G.P.A. He planned to attend Berkeley and major in political science.

The busiest student at school was undoubtedly Renee Massey. She held nearly every office possible, including Publicity, Vice President, Rally, and President. She was Keywanette's President for over 2 years, and was chosen Keywanette of the month.

Renee's leadership abilities were recognized in the community and beyond. She was selected to attend Freedom's Foundation and the Hugh O'Brien Youth Foundation. In her junior year she received the U.S. National Merit Award for leadership, and she was chosen as the Ford Dimension representative for East High. She planned to attend a Catholic university, majoring in business administration with a minor in accounting.

Though small in stature, Andrea Canfield never failed to draw attention. An active participant in band, she became well known for her flute playing. She was selected for the Kern County Honor Band two years in a row, and was also in the California All-State Honor Band. Other honors included Outstanding Band Freshman, Sergeant and Lieutenant of Marching Concert Band, and Bakersfield Youth Symphony 1st flute and flute choir.

Through all this, she held a 4.296 G.P.A. Andrea planned to attend U.C. Irvine and major in biological sciences (veterinary medicine), transfer to the U.C. Davis School of Veterinary Medicine, and eventually open a domestic animal practice, while still playing the flute.

Quiet Jeremy Mullings was not quite what seemed. A sports enthusiast, he served as manager for football and basketball. He has served as Vice-President of Drafting Club, and Secretary, Treasurer, and President of Boy Club. He has also excelled in his studies, shown by his 4.087 G.P.A.

Jeremy also left his mark on the outside world. For 4 years he served as assistant scout master of a Boy Scout troop and as president of Youthquake, his church youth group. He was a participant at Freedom's Foundation, and selected for Congressional Youth Leaders of America. He planned to attend B.C., then transfer to C.S.U.B. to major in secondary education/administration.

As one of the best female athletes around, Julie Caulfield really stood out. Playing soccer and running cross-country and track, all for 4 years, she was recognized as Prep of the Week, Athlete of the Month, Athlete of the Week, and most recently, Top Girl Athlete of Kern County for 1987. In her freshman year, she was selected to be on the International Sports Exchange Team to travel to Taiwan.

Despite her sports success, Julie has not let her schoolwork slip by. She participated in Academic Decathlon and C.S.F., and earned an Academic Letter. She planned to go to U.C.S.B., with an undeclared major, or Cal Poly, to major in photography; running track at either one.

Thirty years down the road, don't be surprised if Wes Gruuber is our nation's Vice President. He was Junior Class V.P., History Club V.P., and A.S.B. V.P. Those strong shows of his leadership ability earned him the Principal's Leadership Award and the Glen-Ron Rogers Award for Scholarship, Leadership, and Community Service. He was a participant in Freedom's Foundation, and an alternate to Boys' State. He also excelled in athletics, proven by his selection as an All-S.Y.L. golfer 2 years in a row.

Wes planned to attend U.C. Irvine, where he received a scholarship, to major in Social Ecology, concentrating on Criminal Justice, Criminology, and Legal Studies.

If you had asked who the most spirited person at E.B. was, the answer would most certainly have been Gaby Ortiz. As an apprentice and varsity cheerleader, then A.S.B. rally, she kept the student body pumped up and pepped up for 3 years. She also served as freshman, sophomore, and junior class secretary. Her talents extended into the athletic world, where she lettered 4 years in tennis. She also was in the Advanced and Concert choirs, as well as playing flute in both Concert and Marching Band. Such activities put her in Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Gaby planned to attend U.C. Davis and major in business administration/marketing.

Looking AHEAD

Have you ever wondered how you would feel the year before your Senior year? When the junior class was asked why they were looking forward to their Senior year, responses varied.

Mark Sanchez: Because it will be my Last year to play football for E.B.

Amy McKain: I can't wait till gradnight at Disneyland so I can see Mickey and Minnie.

Roger Cruz: Because it's my last year to be with my friends and party!

Michelle Crabree: Last year of school and I'm Looking forward to getting out to the real world.

50th year!! Joe Dominguez tried to express his point of view on how he felt about being a part of the 50th graduating class!

by Amanda Moore

Shine in '89

"Privileged," "rad," and "honored" were some of the responses received from Roger Cruz, Tina Hubbard and Mark Sanchez when asked how they felt about being the 50th graduating class. Tony Dominguez replied "Are you serious, I didn't even know I was going to be part of the 50th graduating class." Leonard Rodriguez said he thought it was like being any other graduating class.

Curiously enough, those who graduated from Compton on its 25th year anniversary were part of East's 50th graduating class. Maria Camarano was one of those students. Maria replied that it felt cool to be part of the 25th graduating class of Compton because they made such a big deal out of it. They had an all day ceremony and made a time capsule which was to be opened for their 50th graduating classes.

Though all students had different feelings and thoughts, the one they all had in common was simply hoping to make enough credits to graduate. — Eileen Adame

Learning Lessons From BROKEN HEARTS

Running to the bathroom, and crying themselves to sleep were some of the things Rebecca Reynaga and Madelyn Carbajal did when they got their hearts broken.

However, not everyone who got hurt ran away. Sophia Lopez said if a guy ever dumped her for another girl she would hunt her down and throw a Mufti move. Jason Pierucci assumed he would try to get revenge. In Mr. Roger Chichester's case, the situation of being dropped from someone's love life never even came up.

Everyone acted differently to having their hearts broken; some were hostile, still others wept for the way it was, but all had something in common, a lesson in life and love. —Eileen Adame

All The DIRT

"Loose lips sink ships" was the motto in World War Two. Perhaps confidentiality at school didn't involve winning wars but it certainly would have prevented them.

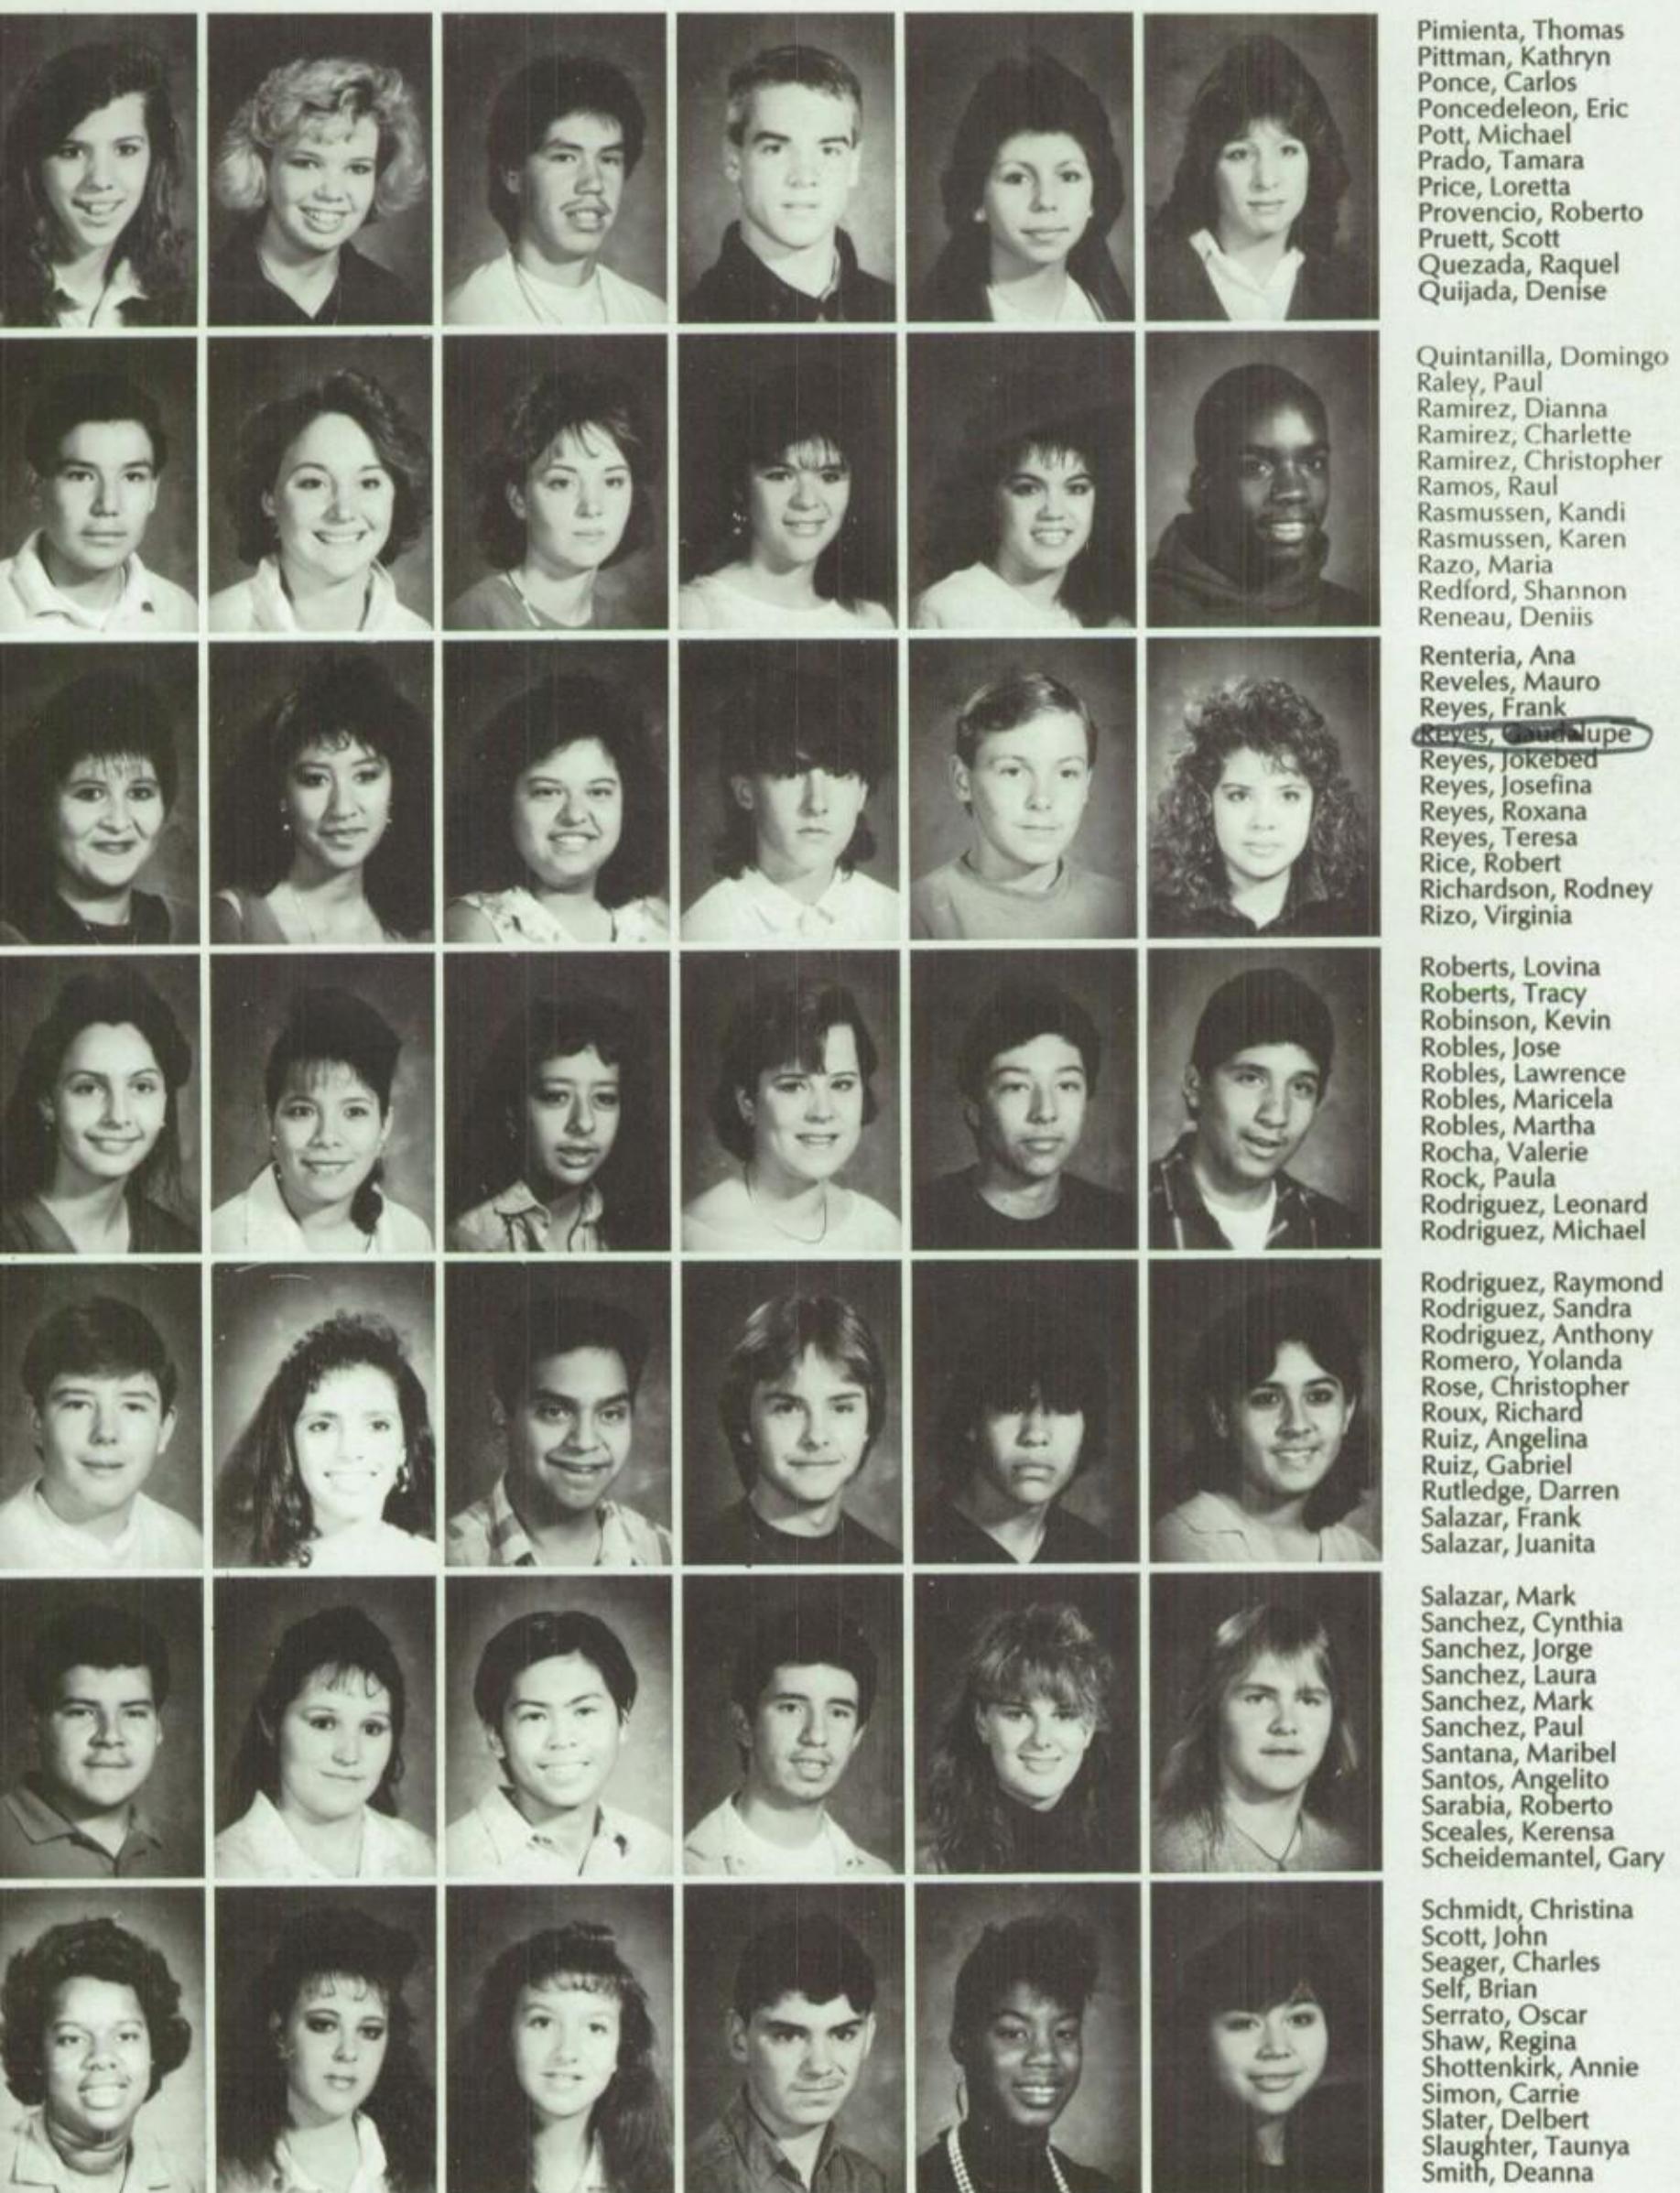

Just how big a problem was gossip at school? "There is definitely way too much gossip at school," stated Shannon Brown.

Why did people gossip? "They think it builds their self-esteem up," answered Darlene Fischer.

Are boys subject to gossip? James Dominguez stated, "Everybody gossips once in their life."

Just as U.S. servicemen were to remain loyal, students were too. After all, loose lips could sink friendships. — Gaby Ortiz and Tamara Cavish

Wild and crazy juniors take over the town. While many juniors went out to the movies, Erica took to hanging out at McDonald's.

89 Out and ABOUT

Life in the fast lane may have passed some of us by, however the class of 89 could be found in the middle of life's indulgences. Juniors were definitely on the war-path for fun.

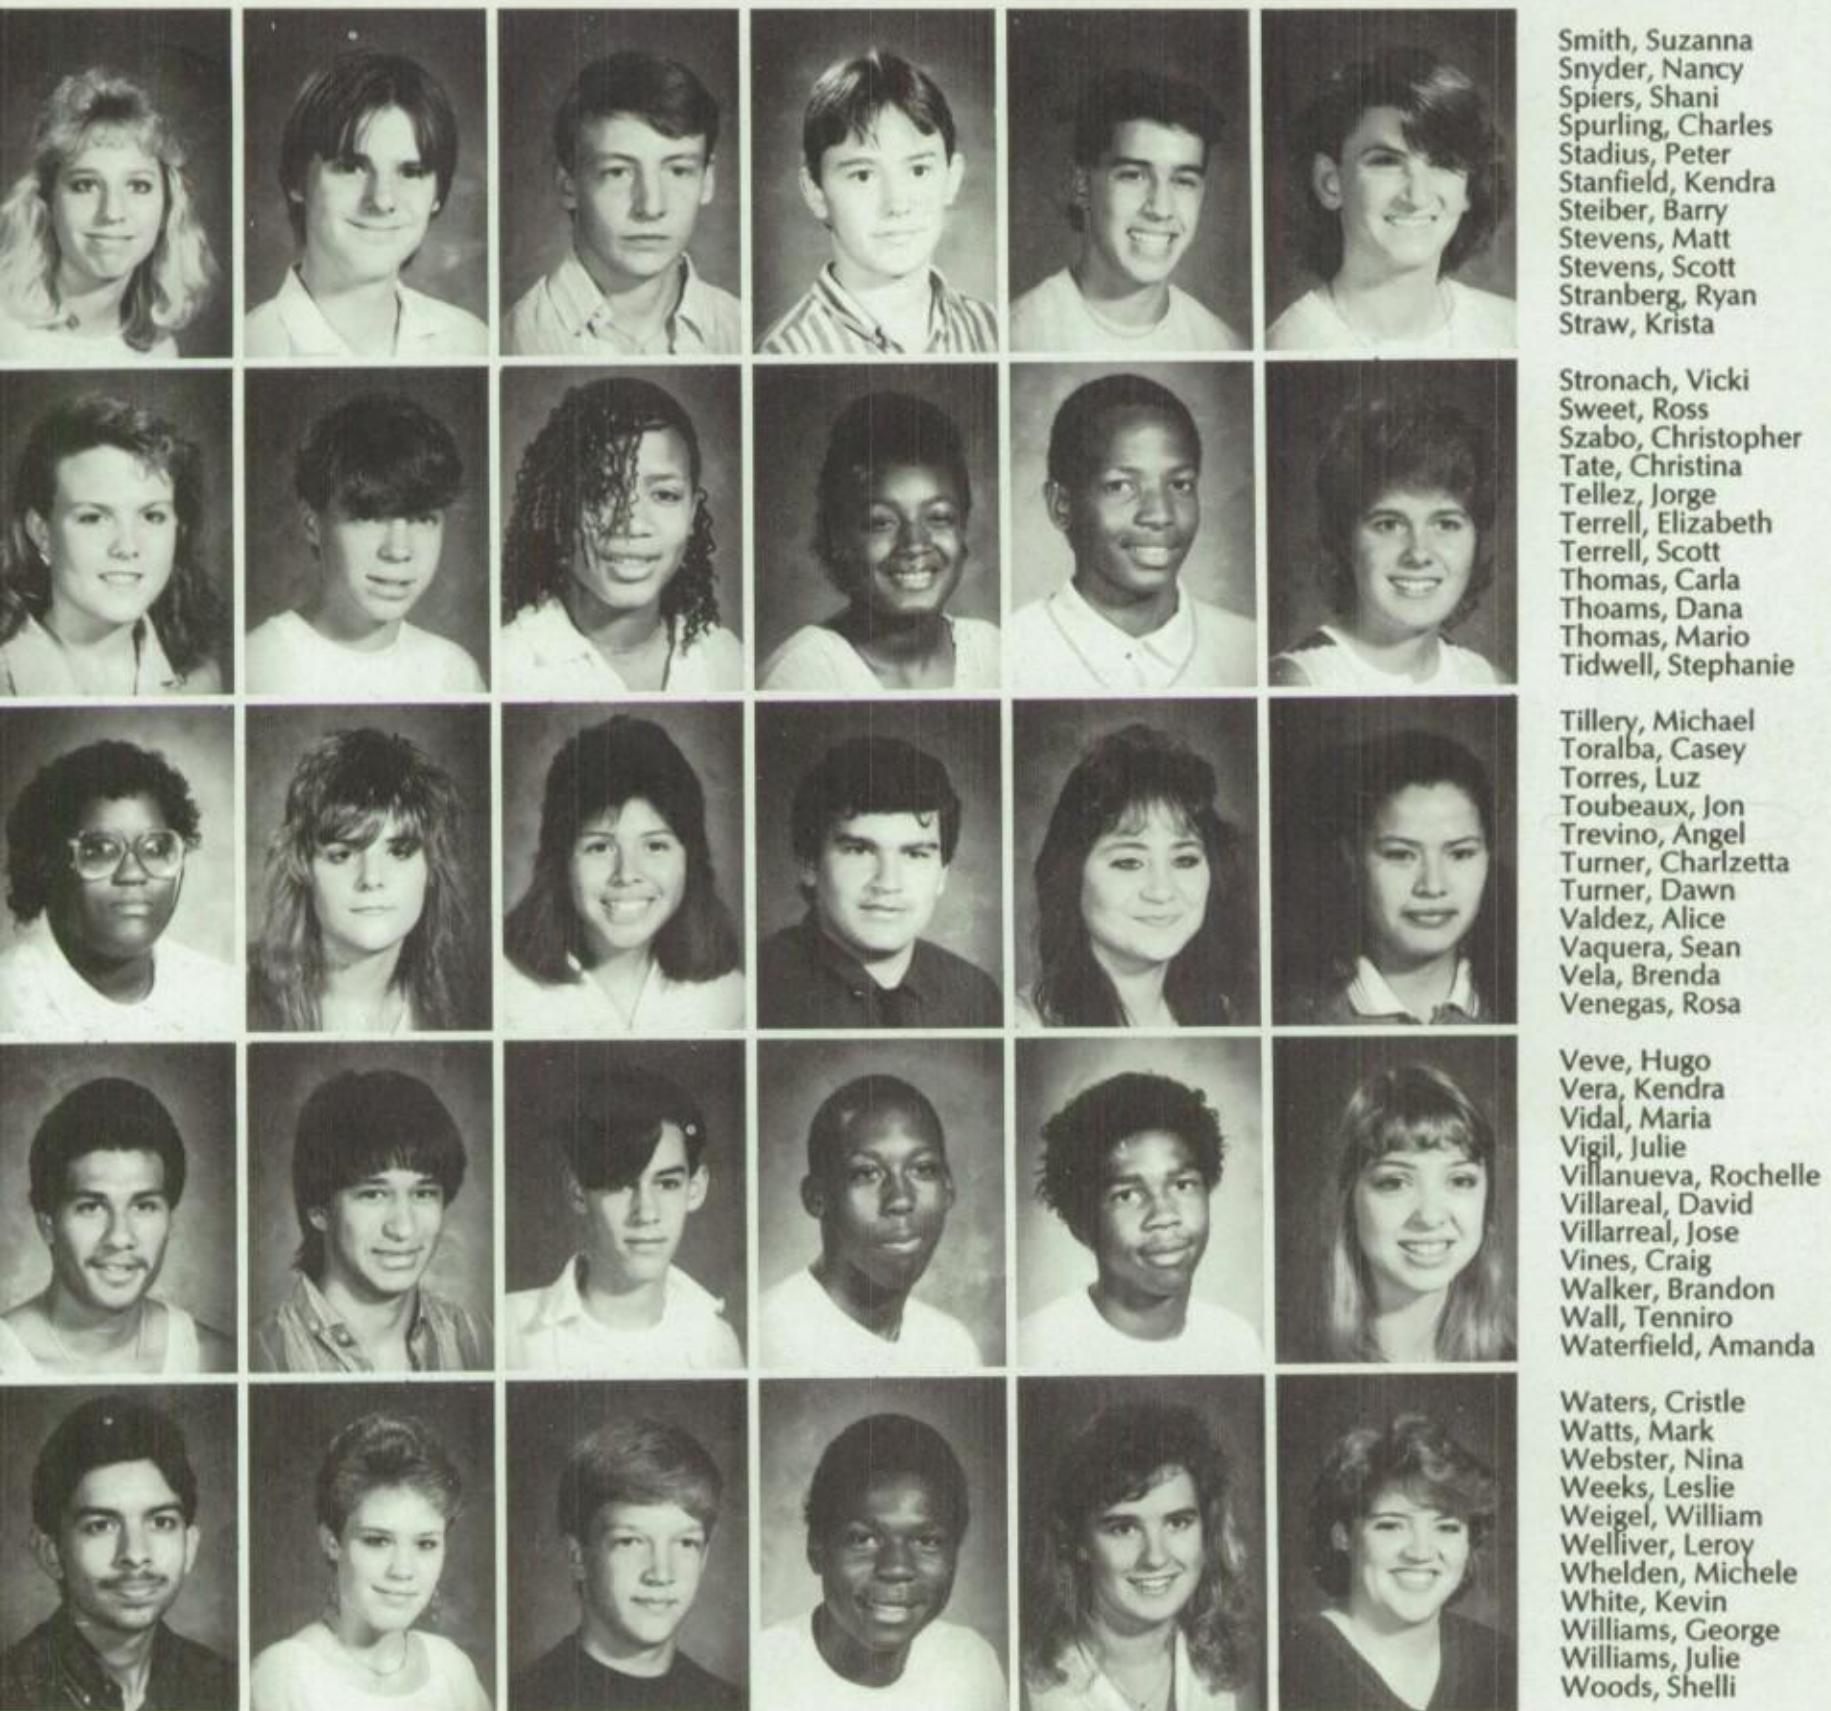

"It's easier to have fun your junior year because it's more relaxed," stated Valerie Rocha.

If anyone knew how to make the most of the situation, it was the junior class. "When there is nothing to do we drive around or go some place to eat," added Valerie Rocha.

Some questioned as to who had more fun, seniors or juniors! Aaron Layer answered, "Juniors have more fun. I never see seniors out on weekends. I go out with my friends, basically to have fun."

Maybe the juniors didn't corner the market on fun, but they knew how to let the good time roll. — Gaby Ortiz

Taking a Closer Look at FAMILY TIES

Fighting over the phone, the car, the bathroom, mom and dad's favoritism and the last waffle in the Eggo eight pack; could this be the brink of World War III?

Even though all out warfare seemed the only solution, brother and sister arguments could be solved in kinder ways.

"Me and my brother always have arguments over clothes. It always seems that I'm wearing something he wants to wear or vice versa," said Sam Patel about brother Navan.

Although it seemed most arguments between brothers and sisters were caused by lack of care, there were some cases where the problem was caring too much.

"I always ask about Ruben's friends. Sometimes he'll tell me a little about them, the good and the bad, and he'll tell me what he thinks of them," said Shirely Soza. Perhaps by not telling the whole story, brothers and sisters protect one another.

There were some cases in which having a brother or sister at the same school became very useful. "Having my sister LaDean in the same class really helped," said Doreen Rizo. "I'm usually behind on another assignment so while I'm doing that, LaDean listens and when I'm done with my work she'll tell me about the lecture or assignment we have to do."

Although brothers and sisters were waging a war on one another, peace usually settled their differences as they realized how lucky they were to have one another.

What's The KEY?

Head held high, perfect stature, confident with each step; could this person have been sending off an air of Self Confidence?

Denise Ramsey described self confidence as "Being sure of yourself, knowing where you stand in life and living for your beliefs."

Tony Dominguez said you obtain self confidence by "Having a good heart and believing that you're the best at what you do."

Students said you applied it socially around friends; others said academically and in sporting competition.

Whatever definition was given of self confidence, the results were positive feelings towards social, academic and other daily routines of life. — Jennifer Sullivan

Student center was polled as being one of the most popular places to go for lunch and meet friends, indicated Kendra Baker and Jodi Alcorn.

Hunger FITS

"Gee Stacy, where do you think we should go for lunch? "Like I don't know, let's try something new for a change."

While a survey showed most students opted to stay at the student center, others with a car available to them such as Kathy Brewer and her friends, appeared to enjoy places such as Wendy's, Taco Bell, McDonald's and other fast food places around the East side area. Other favorites within-walking distance were Vedas, Baskin Robbins and Fastrip with their big selection of items.

Wherever students spent their lunch hour they were able to enjoy lunch and spend time with friends.

A Big DECISION

"Sweetheart, are you looking at the college brochures your father picked up for you?"

"Yes mother."

"Your father and I will be so proud of you if you attend a good college."

"But maybe I don't want to go to college!"

Maybe you and your parents have had a similar conversation, parents just assume you'll go on to college while you might have different plans. — Jennifer Sullivan

Gina Definas

Planning for college is what Molly McArdle and other students think about as each school year passes on. As indicated on the graph, other students have other plans, are opting not to go to college, or are undecided.

Sharing space wasn't unusual this year, as can be seen below with Casey and Leticia. Many students shared lockers on campus; some students even decorated their lockers.

by Amanda Moore

Creative COMBO

Whether they liked high-tech contemporary or the more down-to-earth style, students let their lockers reflect their personality.

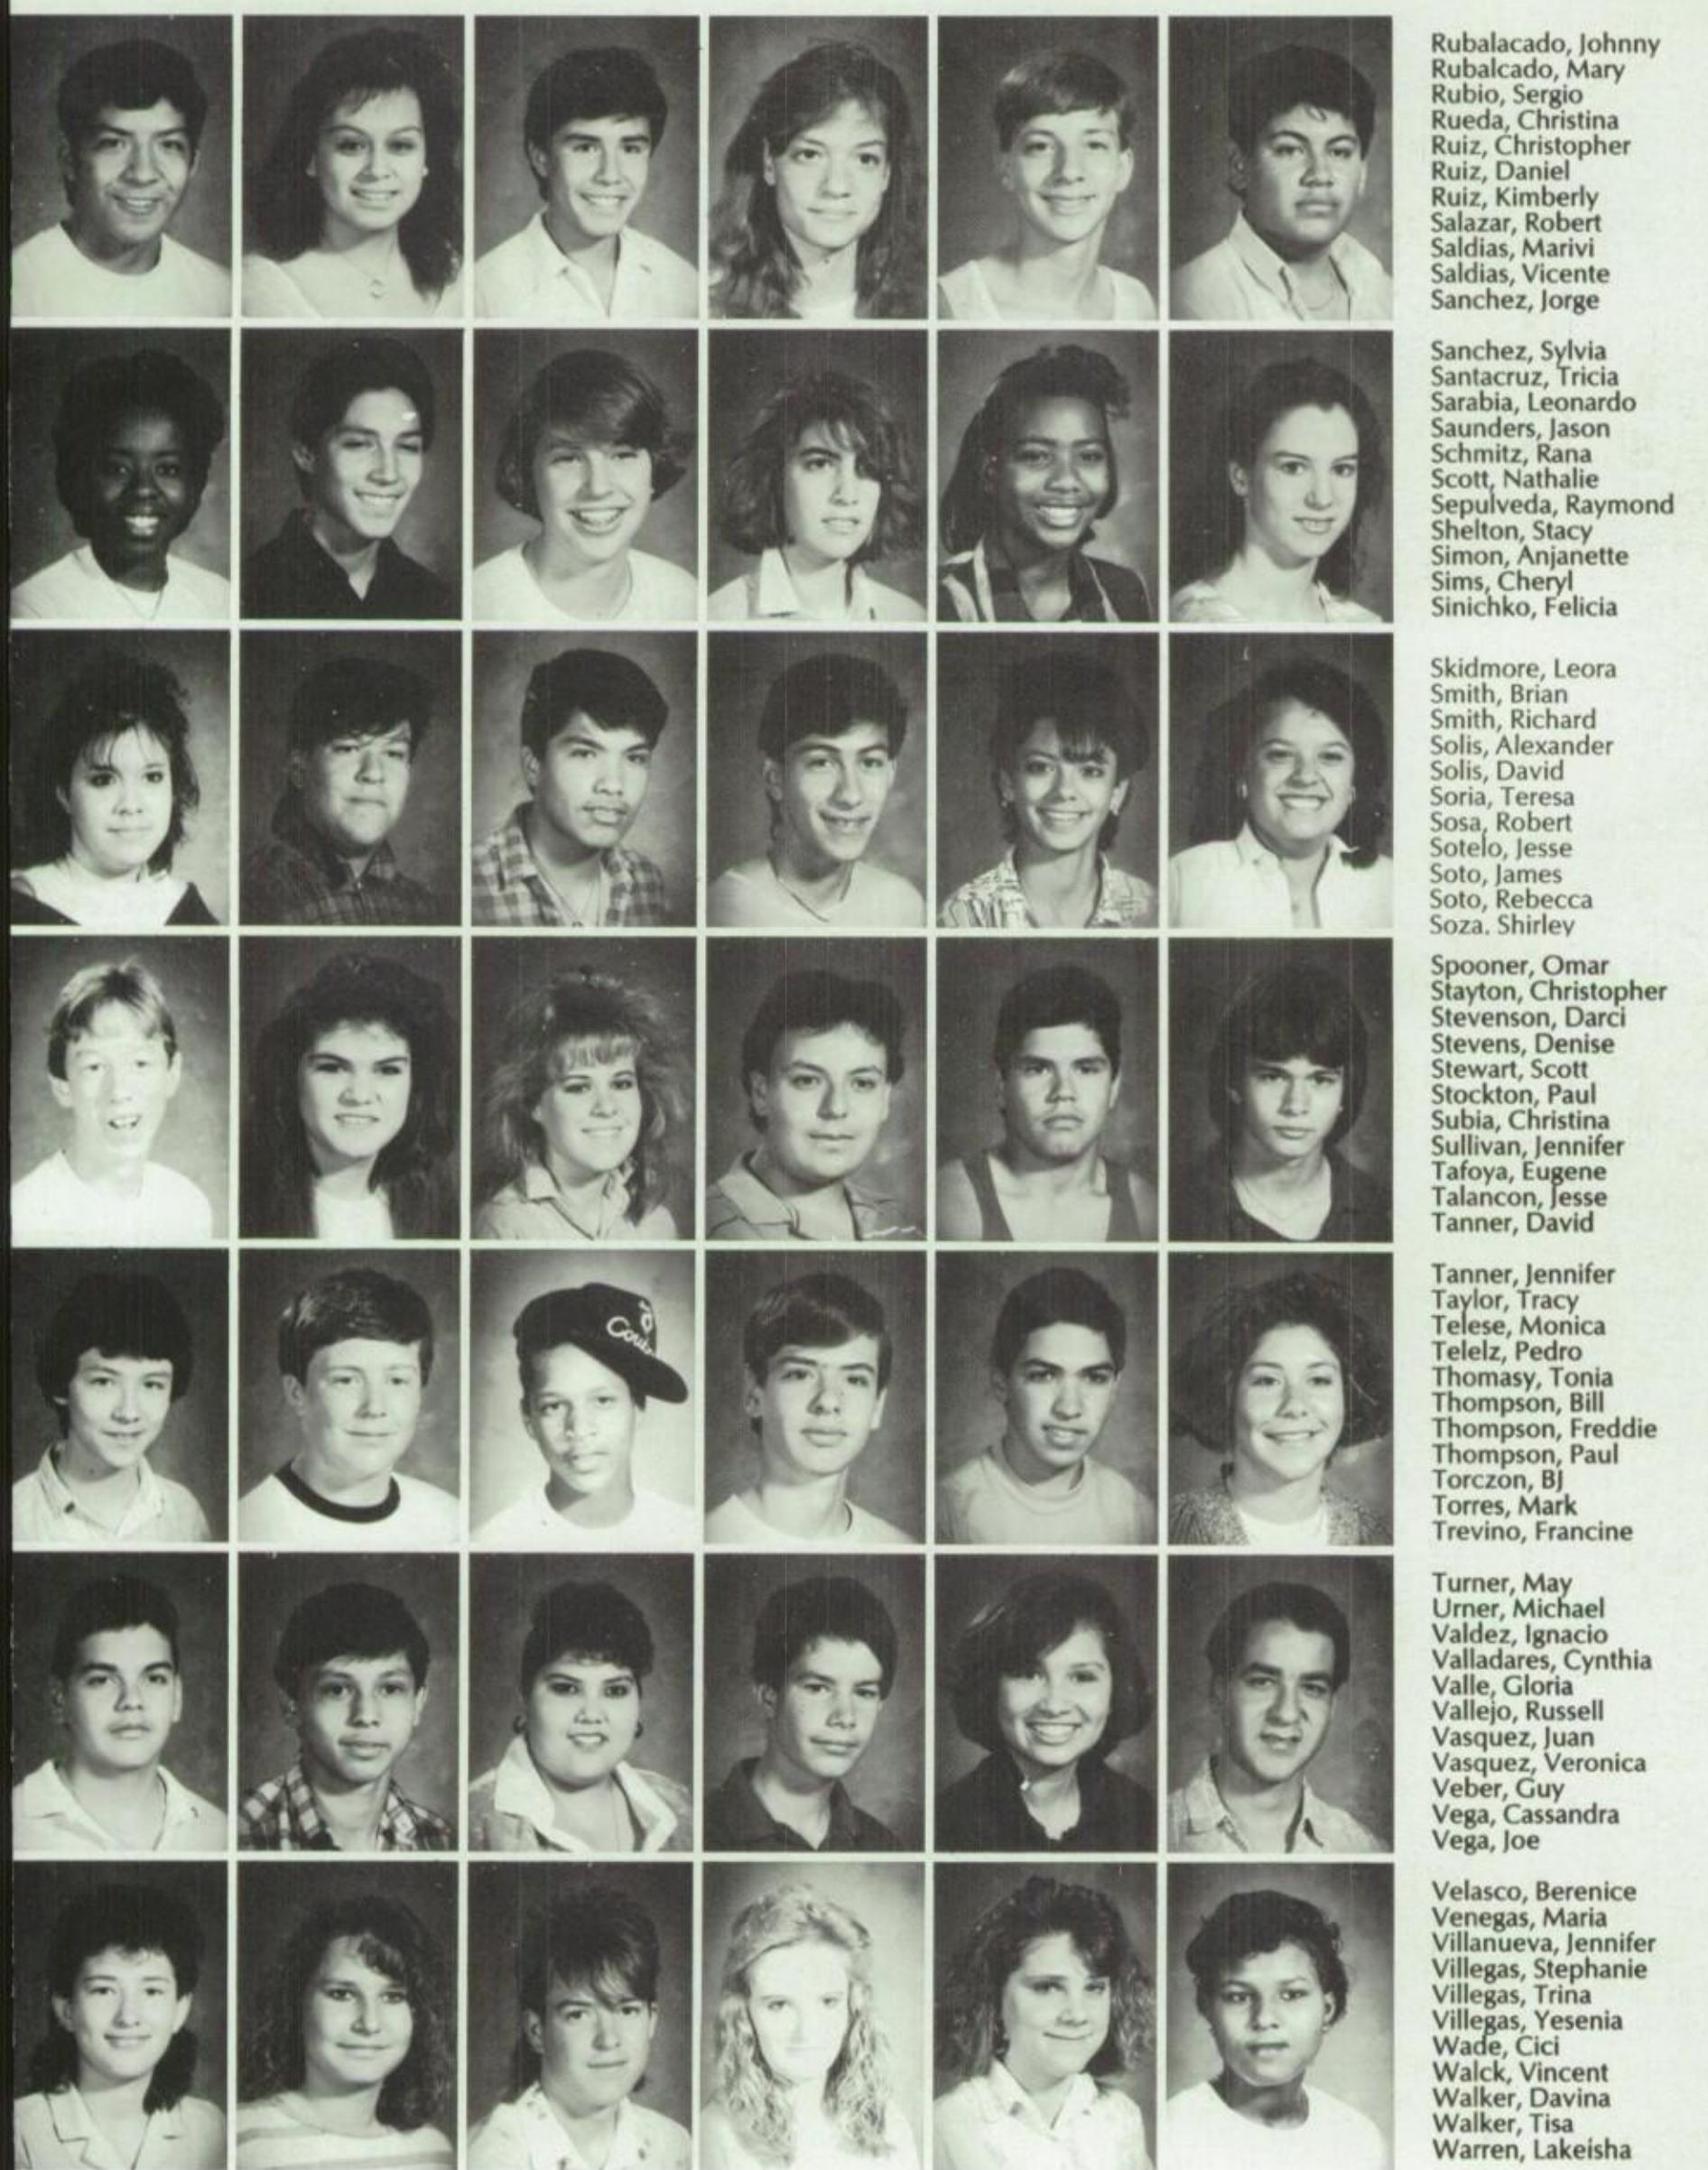

Students often thought of their lockers as home, and used their imaginations to pick the proper decor. No matter what style was chosen the majority of the students chose to hang posters in their lockers.

Perhaps locker decor didn't catch on all over campus, considering some students shared lockers if they had one at all. "The only locker I have is a football locker. I share a locker I have with two people, it's hard to find my stuff," answered Tony Perez.

Having the right combination of style and creativity gave many students something more to look forward to when opening their locker besides just homework. —

Fatal Attractions OF THE HEART

Casually strolling the student center, three pairs of alert female eyes roamed directly towards a cluster of good-looking male specimens.

The girls giggled and glanced over their shoulders to see if the guys had taken interest. Without a doubt, they had. The guys were now-attracted!

This seemingly typical situation was just one example of how attractions were started. Unless attached to someone, students amused themselves by analyzing, pursuing and/or being pursued by the opposite sex.

What attracted a teenager to a girl or boy?

Kevin Amado pointed out, "The way she looks, acts and walks!"

"Nice body, pretty eyes and an all around kind of girl!" expressed Manuel Fernandez.

Denise Fortenberry stated, "Good personality, nice tan and good legs!"

"Personality, looks, the way she dresses, good reputation and a good sense of humor!" revealed Steve Franco.

John Garcia remarked, "Looks, character and if she's fashionable!"

"How they look, act and their attitude!" said Kama Hopper.

Andre Luque confessed, "Nice personality, good-looking, have things in common with me and be friendly!"

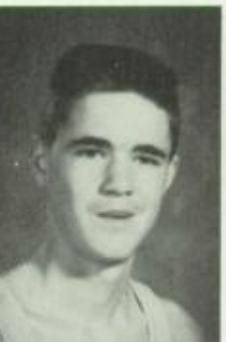

"Nice eyes, good personality and his niceness!" stated Cindy Rodriguez.

Once attracted, how were true feelings expressed? Many students splurged and sent their "special someone" roses and/or balloons; while others revealed their feelings by means of a note. Having received a rose from that special someone, Susanne Ortega expressed, "It made me feel special! To know that someone really cared."

There were also those students who preferred the comfortable closeness of a secure relationship; such as Kristie Bagley and Joey Johnson. Kristie said, "I prefer a long relationship because when you meet the right person, it all falls in place!" Some students equally enjoyed short, brisk relations. These were the constant pursuers that seemed to be always looking for a new and challenging relationship.

But in any case, what a boy and girl relationship broke down to was attraction!! Fatal or mild, it was a sure fire way to add fun to the day to day routine! —

Starting FRESH

Were you one of the many freshmen who spent countless nights worrying about what high school would be like, as those horrifying rumors went through your mind over and over again? Caye Montano admitted, "From what I heard, I thought I would be trashcanned because I'm sort of little." Or were you one of the few who knew that high school would be a snap? Karen Luminarias stated, "I expected East to be a good and fun school and it is."

Everybody had different expectations of what high school would be like; some were good, some were bad. When you finally made it through your first year and your sophomore year rolled around there were no more sleepless nights because you knew what to expect. —S. Dominguez

Andrea Young and Jeff Bergman enjoy lunchtime experiences as they sip their favorite drinks. Lunch was a good time for friends to catch up on the latest news.

Getting a START

"I thought all the seniors and juniors were gonna pick on us, and I was gonna get lost and be late to my classes!" cried Diana Alvarez. For many the first day of school wasn't any big deal, but for the unsuspecting freshmen it was perhaps the hardest day yet faced.

Anticipation of starting high school can sometimes be unbearable. Brian Chagoya recalled, "I was nervous because of schoolwork; I heard it was hard. "When most freshmen seemed intimidated with the thought of school, it was rare to see one so confident as Jeff Bergman who stated, "I wasn't nervous!"

Despite reluctance at first, the class of 91 dug in their heels as they joined the ranks. — Gaby Ortiz

Four-legged FRIENDS

"I don't know what to do; I'm so mad at him, and he told everyone that we'd had a fight, so people kept asking me why I was upset. What should I do Penelope?" "Woof, woof."

Yes, a dog was often our best friend, one who listened and always lent a paw to cry on. Sometimes needing time consuming care and attention, the benefits of owning a pet outweighed any burdens. Lisa Kirtley admitted "Although I hate to clean up after my horse Spud, I still love him, while Kendra Baker turned to her lizard Skubble for comfort in times of need. Pets provided entertainment, relaxation, and friendship, What more could anyone ask for?" — Sherry Nord, Tamara Cavish

Fitting In Is Sometimes GIVING IN

It's late on a Thursday night, and you have three tests to study for but your friends really want you to go to the movies. Even though you initially declined the offer, your friends were smooth talkers and they are able to change your mind. Upon deciding to go to the movie, you, like many other teenagers, caved into peer pressure.

The pressure that engulfed all of our lives stemmed from wanting to fit in with the students from finishing homework, obeying parents, and always doing what was right. It can't be seen or touched but teenagers know it's there and something they can't escape.

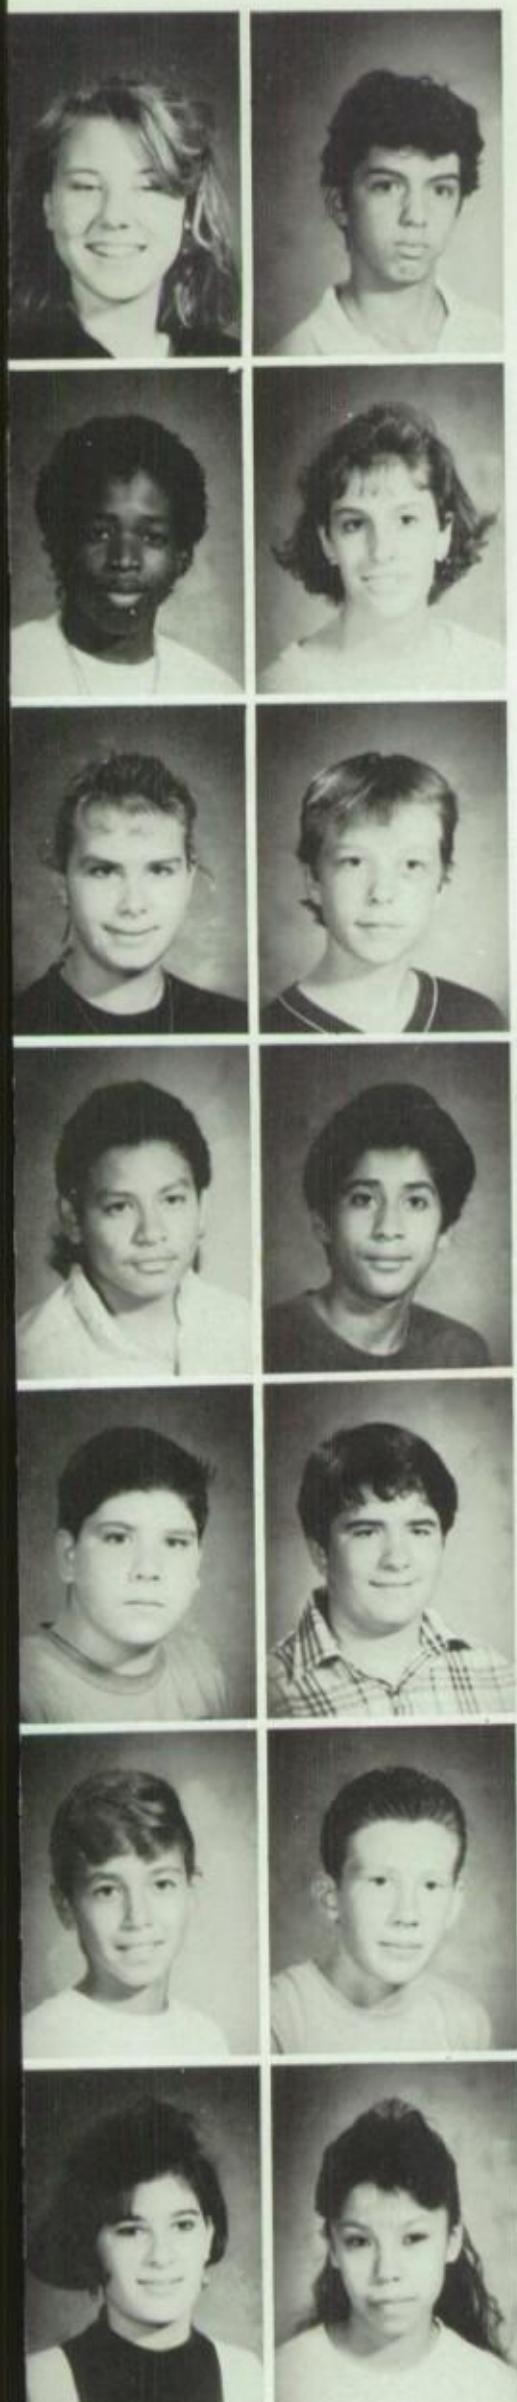

But after you give into peer pressure

by Angela Aguilar

there is always the question, "Do you still measure up to everyone's expectations?" Freshmen, because they were the new kid on the block, were often the prime candidates for pressure. Eric Abraham thought someone would beat him up which never happened. To fit in with upperclassmen freshmen joined clubs and sports. Kent Coston not only followed in his brother Todd's footsteps by playing soccer, but made the varsity team.

Wanting to measure up, the invisible, untouchable, but inescapable pressure followed all like a shadow. — Sherry Nord, Tamara Cavish

Not quite meeting the requirements for measuring up to peers, Joe Walker was punished in a way that all freshmen fear. He was trash canned by two "big bad" seniors.

The Desire to Possess INDEPENDENCE

"Mary, Adam, hurry or you're going to miss the bus; it's coming right now!" For many freshmen this was a familiar tune none of them particularly liked to hear. Not willing to wait for independence, Tina Conejo bellowed "I can't wait until I get a car.;" while Sandy Leuth added, "I wish they had tinted windows on the bus so nobody could see me." "I'd rather walk" was Jody Caldwell's instant reaction.

That long, yellow, abomination with crowds of yelling, laughing, crazy kids also had its good points. It was an opportunity to meet that cute freshman and to make friends. According to Samantha Owens the best part of all was seeing who could make the bus driver the maddest. For some of the luckier freshman who didn't end up on the bus or with mommy, big brother took them to school as did Phil Gorham's brother.

No matter how anyone got to school it was still an experience to deal with. Whether running to the bus, begging big brother, or catching a ride with mom, getting there was all that really counted. — Sherry Nord

Everything Adds Up to MASS CONFUSION

There we were; first day of school; schedule in hand; ready to plow through the crowds to our first class. No problem if we were upperclassmen and knew our way around or so we thought. T1, T5, and T12; never before had these numbers appeared on any schedule we had seen. Suddenly we felt like freshmen again, groping around to find strange room numbers. Feeling better once we realized there was mass confusion other than ours alone, we joined the group hoping to find T1, T5, or T12.

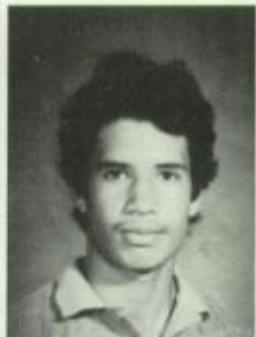

This all began last year when they drove the bungalows onto our little field. No one knew when we would move into those bungalows until the first day of school. We were surprised by all the construction taking place and we also realized that the 400 wing had been moved into the bungalows while the old rooms were being reconstructed. When did all this take place? Well, over the summer our janitors were busy moving desks, books, and all other classroom materials into the bungalows. The whole process was very chaotic since all of the moving was done in one day. Many things were lost, misplaced, or ruined.

Everyone knew that we were in those rooms for a reason. But that did not mean everyone liked being there. Jeff Grossweiler complained, "I don't like having class in a trailer and I wish the workers would hurry up and finish." Many other students agreed that the rooms "smelled like fish food." Students were not the only ones who had complaints; teachers did too. A few teachers felt that the bungalows put limits on their teaching ability. For example, it was difficult to use audio visuals; there was no way to get TV's or VCR's into the rooms. "Even though it was a pain," commented Mr. Richmond, "it was for a good cause."

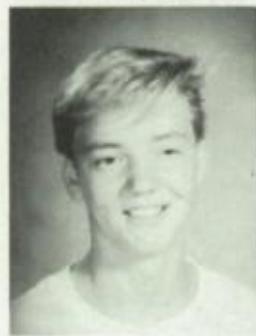

After a while we became used to the strange new rooms. Then suddenly towards the middle of the year, another move was made. The 400 wing was complete and we moved back into it. Then the 300 wing moved into the bungalows. This again was a bit confusing for a while, but again we got used to it. There were nine months of mass confusion but we survived. And just think, as a result we got a "new" school. — Sarah Dominguez

THE BELL

Brrrinnng!!! There it was, that good old tardy bell. You tried to get to class but seven minutes was not enough time. You had to go to your locker, to the restroom, and you had to stop and talk to your friends. There was no way that you could have been to class on time.

No matter what your excuse was, your teacher still marked you late. Most teachers sent you to Saturday school after six. A lot of you experienced the fun of waking up at 8 a.m. on Saturday to pick up trash. Samantha Owens stated, "The worst part was missing 'The Smurfs'." For some this stopped tardies, but for others it did not. After all, they had better things to do than to get to class on time. —s. Dominguez

Trying to Stop the Idea of A CLOSED CAMPUS

A crowd gathers as a dozen people fly through space with nothing but a thin skateboard between them and the hard cement below. These are the extremes that school officials went to to keep students on campus at lunch.

According to Mr. Caffee, assistant dean, they are an "extreme measure" to prolong the nearly inevitable closed campus. "Students take advantage of freedom given by skipping class," he said.

Many saw lunch as an opportunity to take two meals or even the rest of the day off. Mark Southwing stated that "the programs were a good idea. I don't want to spend my entire high school life on a closed campus. I just wish so many people didn't cut classes." Jennifer Hastings thought it was "just not fair that only people with cars should be able to leave."

"Some activities are really fun," said James Canon, a participant in the skateboarding. "I was really nervous about skating in front of everyone, but I got over it and enjoyed myself."

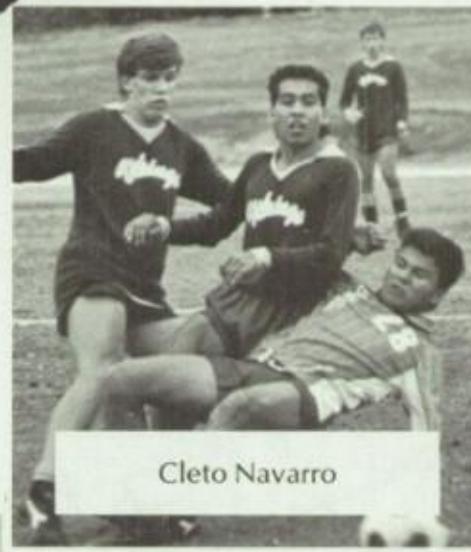

One thing for sure if we can't stop the cutting of classes one way or another, the idea of a closed campus is going to become a grim reality. — Russell Faust

TEAM EFFORT PROVES COMPETITIVE

"One has to be skilled, quick and strong in order to play for the Blades!" described senior John Garcia.

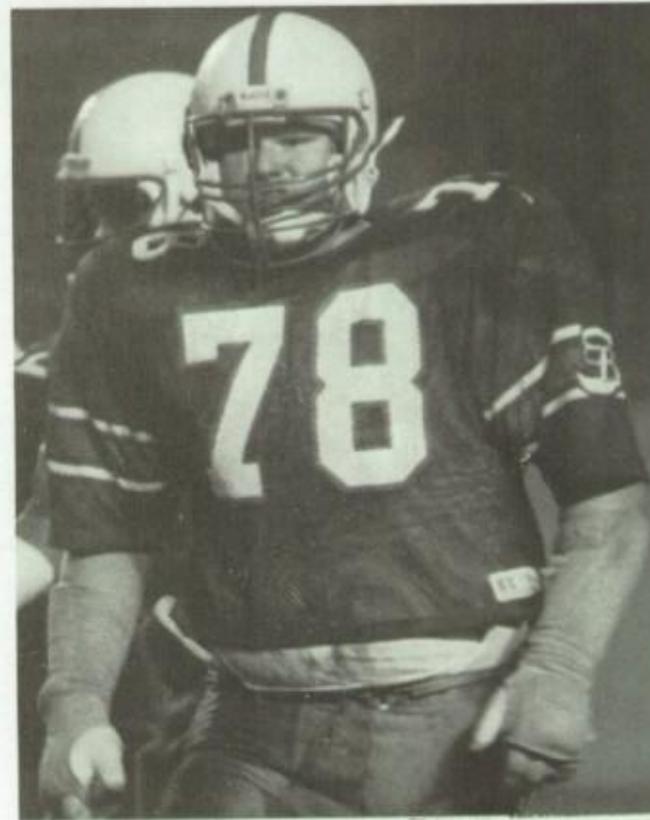

Even though the season wasn't a victorious one by scoreboard, members of the team proved to be strong and competitive. Record in league was 2-5; overall record was 2-8. The first victory came over North with a score of 21-14. "North will always be one memorable game due to our tremendous team effort!" stated Coach A. J. Vasquez. Foothill brought the second win with a score of 10-0.

AN EXCITING SEASON

Though not every game was a victory for the Daggers, the team possessed many talented players. Those who stood out included Eddie Harvey, MVP; Deon Chester, Most Inspirational; Joey Medina, Most Improved. Attitude, desire, hustle, and determination were what head Coach Jeff Crosby looked for in a player. To a determined player such as Fred Thompson, the important thing was "to survive, because in my position I have 150-lb. guys wanting to hurt me." He also felt that concentration was significant throughout the game because, "in the 4th quarter people concentrate more because that's when most people try to make a comeback."

The team finished with a 2 win, 5 loss season record, and a 3 win, 7 loss overall record. Their hard work at practice paid off, preparing the players for what they had to face in games. Remembering the season, Paul Lopez commented, "I think our best game had to be the one against North High. We were getting massacred through the first part of the season, and we had a negative attitude against North because they were in first place. We went out and played them on their home field. The first play of the game we got an interception and scored a touchdown. From then on we got all fired up and played great the rest of the game. That sparked varsity and they won also. All three teams won that week."

"New and Improved." No, not an ad but rather, the theme for the frosh-soph football team.

Even though it came down to the player's efforts, all the athletes agreed Coach Grimes was the one who refined their talents into a winning combination with his perfectionism and persistence during practices. "Practicing is the most important part. If you want to be better than the others you have to work harder and longer than anyone else," commented Buddy Tessandori.

The practices paid off as they finished the season with 6 win, 1 loss record, making them co-champions with Arvin. A memorable game of the season was against BHS; a game we won. To Jeff Bergman, it was memorable because he beat the team a friend played on, while Chris Jones remembered it for more graphic reasons. "I got ejected, and I made a good stick that knocked the guy right on his behind."

Although it was the first football experience for many of the players, most adjusted quickly. Even some sophomores were inexperienced, but this didn't bother them. "It didn't feel different because I'd never played before, just like a lot of the freshmen," was sophomore Chris Bowles' opinion. Experienced or not, this team was special. — Tamara Cavish Volleyball, what a sport! Girls in red and blue uniforms jumping around hitting a little ball over a cute little net: a true misconception. Our lady blades had the hard working attitude that made a winning team.

One of the team's goals was to be league champions. The record doesn't indicate how strong the team was. The blades finished 7-7 in S.Y.L. and 18-11 overall leaving them in 4th place. Coach Jeannie Jorgenson felt, "The season was like a roller coaster; a lot of ups and downs but mostly ups." The varsity team was a young one with 9 returning players and two newcomers.

Sophomore Janelle Grigsby and Sandy Rutledge surprised us all by starting varsity.

THE KEY TO SUCCESS

"Working together" and "spirit" was the name of the game for the Junior Varsity volleyball team. No matter what the situation was they always had a way of keeping spirits high.

Although the season ended with the Daggers in 6th place, they were determined to be winners, whether they won or lost. The team had a lot of new players this year which should be a promising sign for next year. One of the best games was played against West, their toughest being B.H.S. One of the Daggers stronger points was their ability to work together.

Coach Padilla felt, "The girls played cold and hot throughout all their games." With all the hard work and dedication put into the team it was difficult for coach Padilla to pick MVP, inspirational, and most improved.

Although they may of not had the best season they had hoped for, they still kept their hopes high with lots of spirit. "Although we didn't win we gave the other teams a lot of competition. Frosh-Soph volleyball a team made up of mostly freshman with few volleyball skills. But few skills was hardly a factor for this volleyball team. Coach Ms. Dignan felt "They picked up on basic skills real quick such as sets and serves."

BREAKING AWAY

Going into the season the defending SYL champions and ranked in an underdog position, the Blades proved to be anything but losers. With Anthony Jefferson one of the only two seniors starting and four other juniors starting, the team lacked experience and height but made up for it in speed and raw talent. When asked if he felt he was giving up a lot of experience by starting four juniors, Coach Joe Dominguez said, "Yes, normally with seniors you don't make crucial mistakes at the end of the game." The team relied mostly on talent through the first half of the season. "We are not using our speed to our advantage because we are not converting on our fast break opportunities." Kevin Robinson said, "The team picked up the pace through the second half of the season." Terry Minnoy commented, "We've worked hard these last few games to crank up our potentially devastating running game."

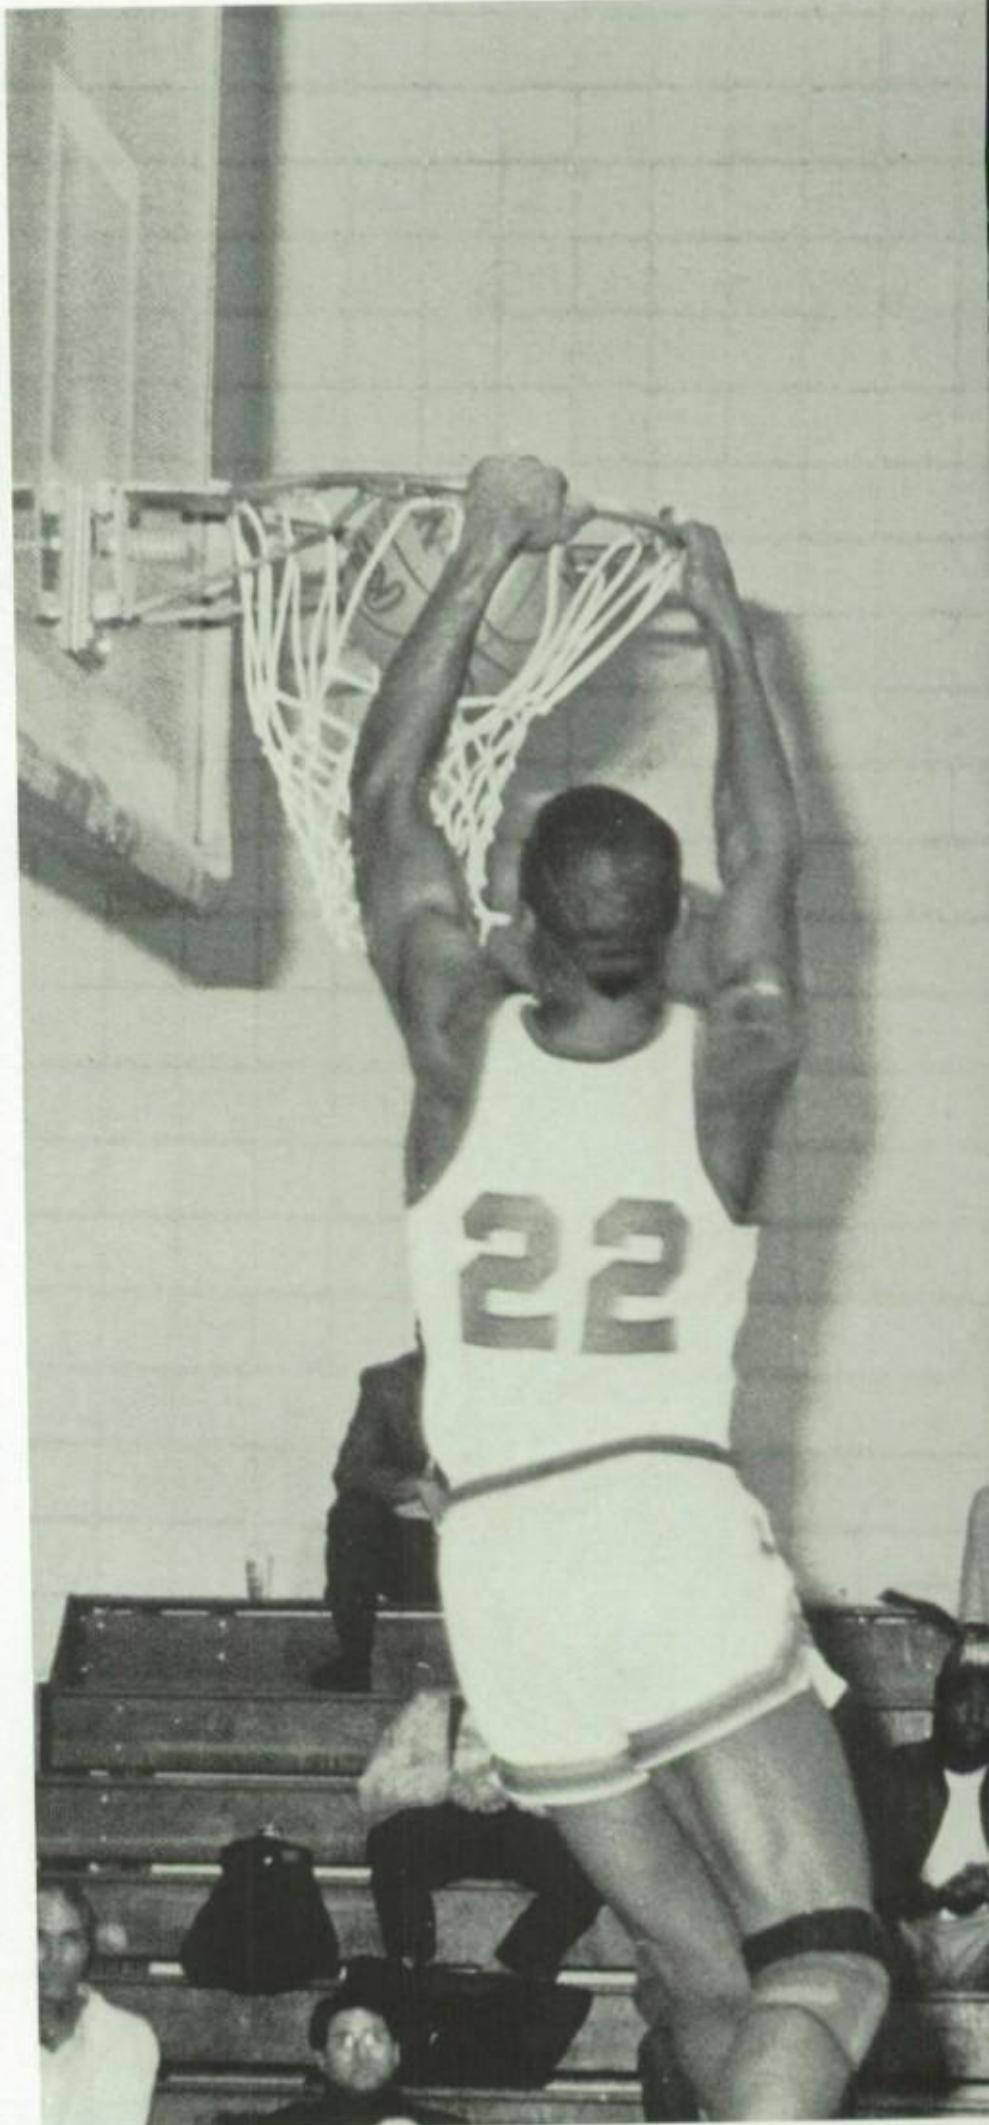

The team won the first four games of the season, but to the dismay of fans and the team, three straight losses followed. The defeats came by way of BHS, North, and Foothill. The main factors concerning the defeats were "rebounding and turnovers" as told by Coach Dominguez. The team rebounded and shot its way back into the winner's circle by defeating its next four opponents. One win, by 25 points, was over West during the last game played in the old gym. April Ramirez, a fan, recalled, "It was exciting because it was the last time we were going to be in our gym so we knew we would win; we had to win." Any following home games would be played in the new gym being built.

With the introduction to a new play-off system for the valley championship, the importance of winning league championships changed. The teams were seeded in the play-offs by their record. Everyone went to the play-offs regardless of team records. Anthony Jefferson admitted, "I think it's great; if a team goes on a hot streak at the end of the season then they can, maybe, continue on. It gives everyone a shot at the valley championship."

NICE IS NOT ENOUGH

With many players from last year and some promising new additions, a fresh playing style emerged.

"Ability to play, rebound, and be an overall team player," was what Coach Vince Ludd looked for at tryouts. Among the players, three stood out as being very strong on the court: Matt Martinez, Bryan Chagoya, James Boston.

Although Foothill and Bakersfield High were said to be the toughest teams, East played a very competitive game putting to use the coaching techniques of Vince Ludd, a former East High player with a 1967 championship under his belt. "An essentially good coach, watches us during practice to make sure we're doing our best and tries to improve our skills at all times," commented Jason Gleed.

Summing up the season, Coach Ludd wished his players hadn't been so nice. He clarified that by explaining that niceness and aggression don't usually mix and that aggressiveness was a plus in a sport such as basketball. Overall though, he admitted that they had had a good year.

RECONSTRUCTION YEAR

East's building's weren't the only thing under construction. The girls' varsity basketball team did some reconstruction themselves. Coach Fred Gonzalez felt, "It was a rebuilding year; we made it a goal to improve game to game week to week."

The Blades' toughest opponent was B.H.S., Foothill and South. Even though the team had some bad luck and hard times, they took some of the league's top teams to the finish. Some of the weak points were inexperience and immaturity. Mr. Gonzalez hoped for improvements next year. His message to the team was to be able to walk off the court with "No regrets." Denice Ramisey felt, "It takes a lot to play basketball everyday; practices are hard, but when it comes to game time we all work together and play to the best of our ability."

Promising new players for next year were two sophomores Latonya Pittman and Melanie Deason and one junior Denice Ramisey. "Although we had a slow start in December, we continued to improve each game; even with our inexperience, we took the top teams to the wire. Looking ahead, I feel good about next year since the majority are returning," stated Coach Fred Gonzalez.

Starting out fresh with new faces and new ideas, the Dirks were on the defense as they worked on different types of zones and lay-ups.

One of the most challenging games was played against B.H.S. and North. Coach Bruce Hill felt, "The team was capable of beating all other teams but their weaknesses showed in scores because of lack of experience and only two returners." Mr. Hill wanted to end the season at 10-4 league but their loss to West was unexpected. The team's most rewarding win was against Arvin where everyone contributed to a team victory. ## THEY HAVE THE MOVES

Wrestling . . . we think of a huge arena filled with overly excited fans, two large men fighting it out for the wrestling championship of the world. Body slams, helicopter throws were all basic maneuvers.

Wrestling was more than just two guys beating each other up; it was a complex sport with real moves and real competition. "The moves we did were not always the most graceful, but if they got the guy pinned it was all worth it," stated Greg Bergman.

When it came to how the crowd affected their performance, one player said, "Even though your team and friends were cheering you on, which, to me, made a lot of difference, beating your opponent was an individual effort," commented Arturo

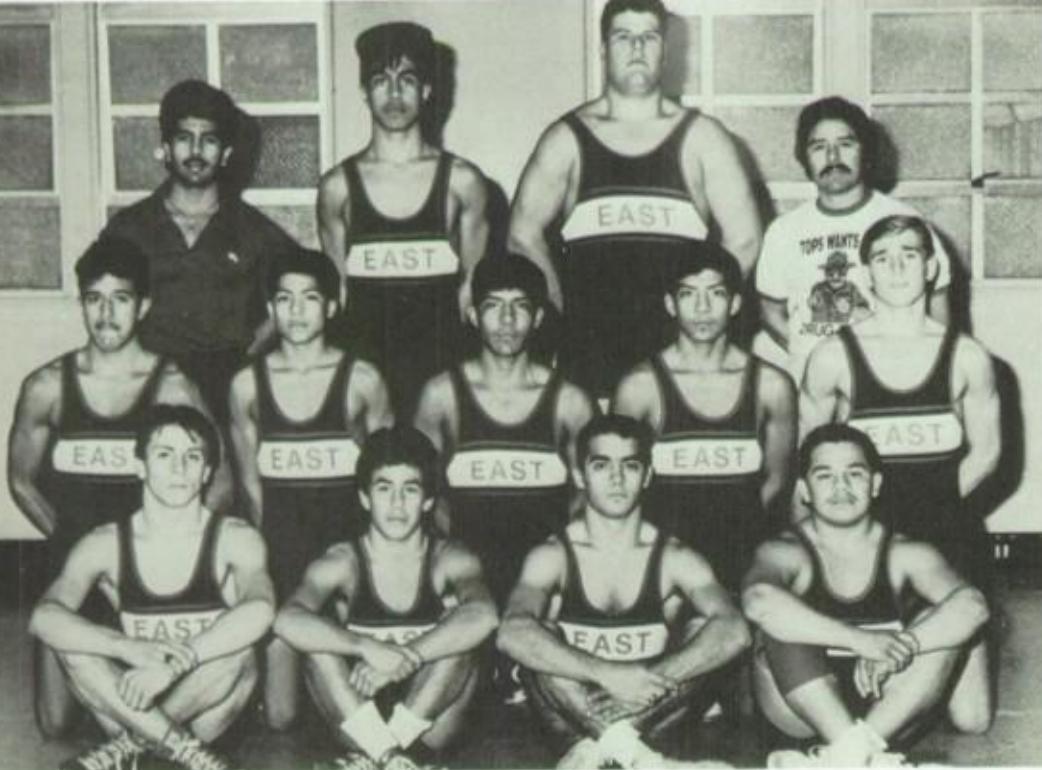

Gonzales.

Matches were more exciting than practices but helped to prepare them for how well they would do. "At practice to prepare for a match we really had to get pumped up because the competition was really tough. This year we ran a lot and had to be conscious of our eating habits and the time spent practicing. We did fairly well this year; Teddy Armijo and Danny Granillo both took first in league for their weight division," remembered Roger Pelham.

SPIRITS HIGH

"Our main goal is to play fair and be the best we can be," indicated Coach Ortega. Soccer got little publicity due to small crowds and bad weather. An adequate budget was given for balls and uniforms but not all the people who tried out could be on the team due to a lack of funding. The way that play was often determined was up to the weather a great deal of the time. One of the most intense games of the season was against West High school. The weather held up good and the team pulled together and worked very well.

One of the hardest positions to find a player for was the center halfback position. The player needed to be an intelligent playmaker and also be motivated and provide leadership on the field. The training of a player was a very crucial point; it affected the whole game and season. Players were recognized by their peers through admiration, praise, and voting for team favorites.

"It took skill and incentive to make it through such a tough season. Play was very intense and we came out about 6th place," stated Andre Lunque.

SEASON OF VICTORY AND DEFEAT

"The sky is the limit for these girls," commented Mr. Bryson. And so it was. The combined efforts of second year Coach Mr. Dax Bryson and an enthusiastic group of students led the girls' soccer team to a great season. Although they did not make it to the play-offs, they came very close. Trying to break a second place tie with Highland, the two teams played but ended up with a score of 0-0. At the next game Highland won 3-0, knocking East out of the play-offs. But even so, the girls kept a positive attitude. Lara Ceigarkansky stated, "We gave our best effort and I think that's what counts the most."

Their success accounted for many things. Mr. Bryson joked, "The love for their coach makes them a success." and Michelle Arias felt, "Everyone gets along and doesn't mind working together." Strong players who put out a lot of effort included Jamie Poole, fullback; Molly McArdle, halfback; Misty Garner, forward; and Kendra Baker, goalie. As individuals became stronger, so did the team. Mr. Bryson felt the best part of coaching was, "Watching each individual grow as a person and a player and then coming together to be more than individuals."

Baseball was a game of talent, technique, speed and according to Brian Self — "There's no particular size. Anybody can play as long as you have an eye for the ball and have talent."

Being coachable, having a good attitude, talent and ability was what Coach Jeff Crosby looked for in a player at tryouts. A hustle, a desire to do well and a good attitude were the predicted strong points of the team. West, BHS and North High would more than likely be the season's toughest opponents. Coach Crosby stated, "I ask the players to give it their all. If we play to our capabilities and lose, that's all we can ask for, even though we'd like to win!"

What makes a player inspirational? Senior Tudy Gonzalez stated, "One that always hustles, is pumping up the team and is always fired up!"

TEAM WORK

Going into the season with "strong pitching and better hitting through-out the line-up (compared to last year's team)" as told by the coach, Mr. Hill, the team got off to an excellent start. The team's first game was against Arvin, one of the teams' toughest opponents. Mr. Hill commented on Arvin's ability to be such an aggressive opponent, "They have excellent coaches that have developed very good players."

With that in mind our players went in hot and took the Arvin team down by three points. "The team was highly competitive and they all wanted to play," Mr. Hill added.

With this being Mr. Hill's second year coaching the team, he emphasized the fundamentals of defense and hitting and base running." He also commented on the team's ability to work together as "much better than last year's team."

With the win behind them the team prepared for the up-coming Arvin game. The boys had to really hustle and perform to the best of their ability to have a chance at this game the coach added.

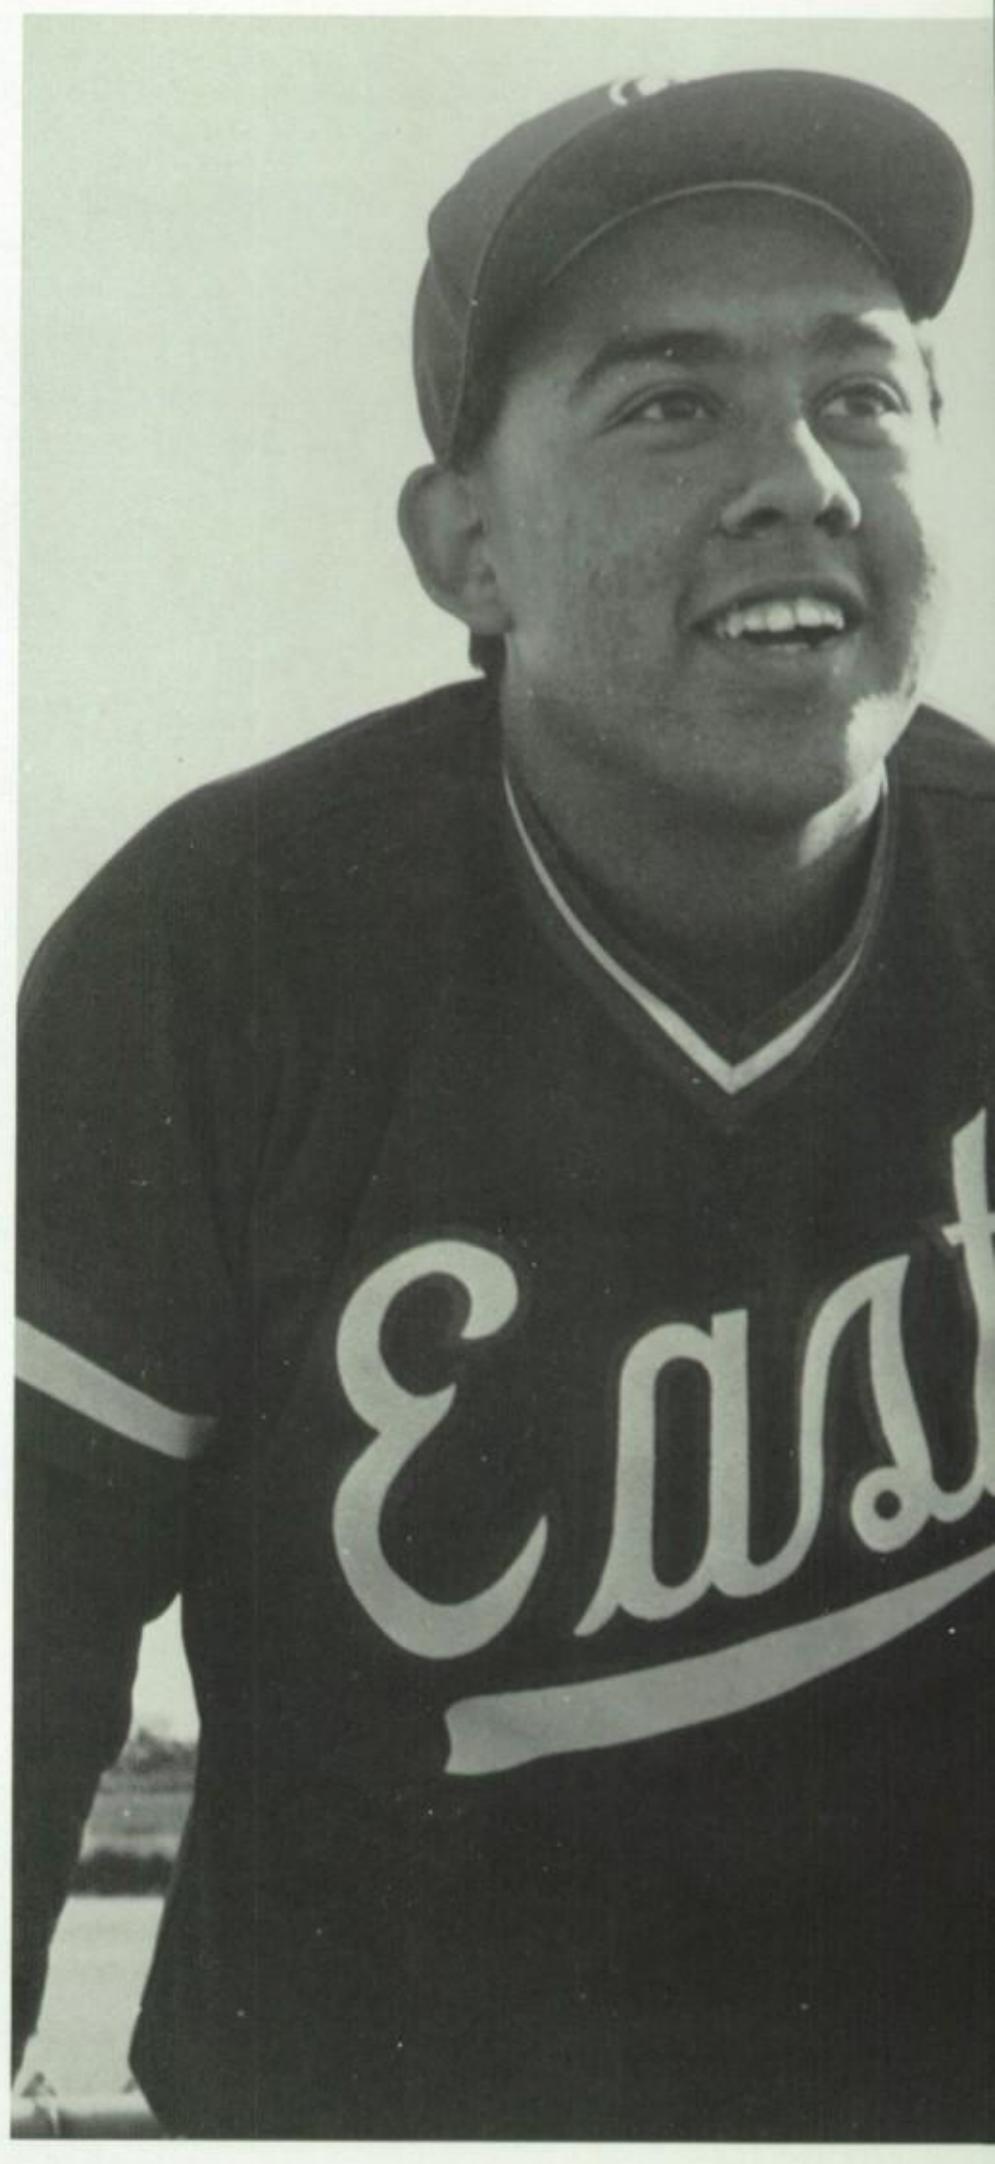

The team continued their hard work throughout the season and looked ahead to the SYL championship that everyone wanted.

A WINNING SEASON

The frosh-soph level was usually one of learning and becoming accustomed to the intricacies of the sport. However the frosh-soph softball team had already bypassed this point, and was ready to play ball. Made up of all freshman and sophomores, the team was not exactly green. Having grown up playing softball, even playing on the same or opposing teams in Junior League, the girls had plenty of experience.

With team goals of "having a winning season and having fun, according to Coach Susan Simonz, there was plenty of room to make short-term goals, such as making less errors in the next game and so forth. "If an error is repeated, there will be extra work," was the coach's penalty.

The two most important aspects of the game were fielding and pitching. To meet the need, players were drilled in fielding, as it was hard to make an error if the skills were there. The new pitching regulations, meant to make pitching less dangerous, required careful coaching. Since movement was supposed to be limited, umpires watched the pitcher carefully.

Although the entire team was of outstanding caliber, several players shone out above the rest. Among them were sophomore Leah Nava at catcher and freshman Jennifer Gorman at shortstop.

VICTORY

"You have to have a lot of dedication to be a good swimmer. That water is really cold sometimes, but it's worth the commitment and effort," stated Chris Fendrick.

In the cold grey dawn, swimmers arrived at Jefferson Park and were in the water before the sun came up. After completing a vigorous workout, they set off for a day of school, jobs and homework. Then at 7:30 p.m. they were back for another session. In the afternoon was the sole J.V. practice.

"It scares me to get on the blocks because I'm afraid I'll false start or not hear the gun. Then when I'm in the water I don't pay attention to anything around me. It's just me out there swimming all out," stated Melissa Norman.

With a new rule about false starts there were no 2nd chances. Swimmers had to concentrate more, which helped them in other areas. The team had more than 40 members which enabled the more experienced swimmers including Justin Schimnowski, Chris Martinez, Chris Fendrick, Roxanne Reyes, Rabae Payne, and diver Laura Lee, to concentrate on their best events. With the strong team they hoped to capture a 2nd or 3rd place in S.Y.L.

A GOOD MENTAL ATTITUDE

"The S.Y.L.," replied Coach Elmer Scritchfield when asked what his team and individual goals were. With 30 years of golf experience and the assistance of Mr. Dick Evans, Coach Scritchfield taught skills to old as well as new players.

"In a game such as golf a good mental attitude is needed; it doesn't depend on strength alone," said Coach Scritchfield. According to the coach his strongest players were senior, Wes Gruber and a promising new player, freshman Ryan McClain. The teams' strong points were having 5 experienced players making up a team of 10; mixed with competition of wanting to be #1.

Team members who played other sports as well commented that golf was a lot slower paced with little physical contact or head to head competition. Head down, eyes on ball, left arm straight, follow through: that's the kind of concentration needed in this mind game.

"There is competition among the team, but it's controlled; everyone wants to be the best, but we also have a lot of fun," said Shad Campbell.

TAKE IT TO THE TOP

Determined to enjoy themselves and do their best, the boys' tennis team was made up of enthusiastic hard working boys. The only weakness that held them back was the lack of experience. With only two returning from last year's top eight, the boys had a lot of work cut out for them. Coach Andy Cantrell stated, "We have the potential of developing into a fine team, and we plan to do so." With every little practice and every match they improved.

THE PERFECT MATCH

The powerful match-winning forehand shot, or the weak backhand that dribbled down the net on your side. A killer 70 mph serve, or a weak lob that set up your opponent for the slam. Tennis was a game of odds and luck, but mostly of skill and perseverance. With optimism, hard work, and good equipment the team felt able to finish high in the rankings.

Besides being physically fit, accuracy was necessary to place ones shots. "A lot of people have their on and off days, and if it's a good day they'll win and if it's not they won't. It's a very frustrating sport and takes a lot of patience. If you lose your composure it's a big advantage to your opponent. Tennis is more than a mental sport; it takes a physical effort. I'm just hoping that we can keep our mental attitude up so we can win," commented team captain Gina Zaletel.

QUALIFY FOR STATE

Track began its season with high expectations. They looked to such returners as Julie Caufield in the 2 mile and Karen Johnson and Stacy Minnie running the 800 meter. The team was in need of sprinters and high jumpers. "Without girls in these events makes it easy to get behind in points and then it is difficult to win an entire meet," said Ms. Padilla. Even those weaknesses didn't stop Ms. Padilla from thinking she had a good team. She hoped to take at least four girls to state. "Track is such an individualized sport; it's important to have that extra support our team gives," said Julie Caufield.

Looking towards the boys' team, Mr. Lopez's goal for the season was "To do good in the various invitational's and to repeat last season as state qualifiers in the 1600 meter relay." Their weak points were the need of sprinters and hurdlers, while strength was the long distance. ## KEEPING SPIRITS SKY-HIGH

Cheerleaders offer enthusiastic support for every sport.

Twenty-three female voices yelled on through the crowd. The emotion died down and cheer erupted as spiritleaders organized the crowds into one exciting rooting section.

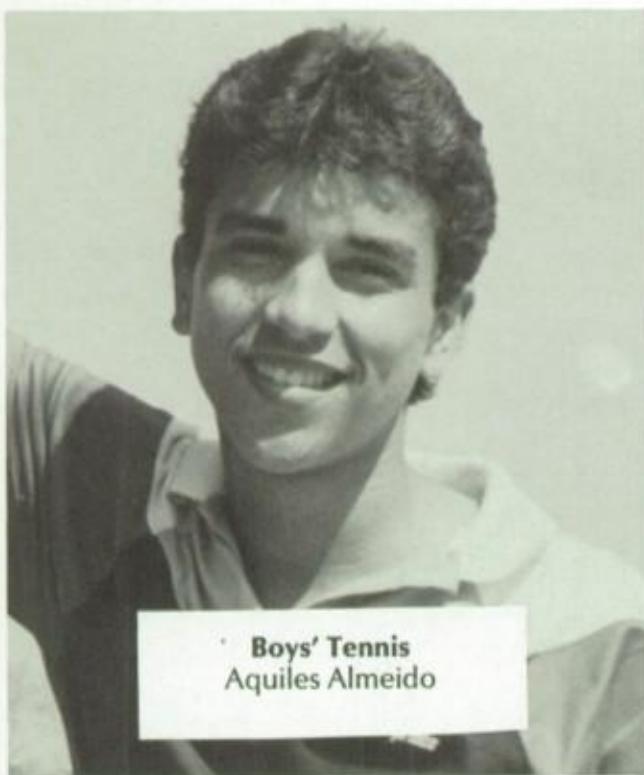

Leading the crowd in a gigantic cheer was not the only thing spiritleaders had to do. Along with learning motions and cheers, dedication played an important role in being a spiritleader. "Dedication included being at after school practices as well as attending all games," recalled Bridgett Berry. "There were always extra meetings to attend, extra practices to go to or posters to be made. Sometimes it was frustrating and people got on each others nerves but I'm glad I did it."

Just as the cheerleaders were an inspiration to the players, they were also an inspiration to each other. "Before tryouts we gave each other pep talks and wished each other good luck," commented Kari Hutchins.

It was dressing up in a toga during spirit week, wearing the uniforms every game day. It was firing up the crowd to yell Blade spell out in the final seconds of a tight game. It was cheerleading. Lamara Cavish

PERFORMING ARTS — Erika Baradat

Andrea Canfield is a good, consistent, hard working science student. She has been one of our top students in biology, chemistry and physics.

Laura Lee has not only maintained straight A's in math, but she also has a curiosity about it. She sees alternate methods in problem solving and shares her ideas.

Jeff Parks is an industrious and talented young man, who is always ready to take on an extra assignment.

Darlene Bearup is a model student. Her attitude and grade reflect her interest in Consumer Home Economics.

Building the right combination

While the construction workers were busy building a "new" school, the Sierran staff was busy building a "new" yearbook. Trying to get away from the traditional book, the staff used new designs and a new color scheme. This was not an easy task; many long hours were put into the planning and designing of the book. When it came down to actually putting it together, staffers worked during class, 5th lunch, 7th period and after school trying to meet those dreaded deadlines. Although it got a little tough at times, it was still very rewarding. Staff member Carrie Simon stated, "It takes a lot of work and dedication, but in the end it's worth it to see the book finally done."

Congratulations Louis!

To see you happy, laughing and joking, smiling and content, striving towards goals of your own, accomplishing what you set out to do having fun with your friends, always wishing for today. I thought about your handsome face and felt your excitement for life and your genuine happiness and I as your mother burst with pride as I realize that my dream for you came true. What an extraordinary person you have become and as you continue to grow remember always how very much I love you.

A look of excitement on her face, Sofie Lopez celebrates the end of the school year. She obviously "picked" the right combination of classes and fun.

Walking away from high school forever are seniors Gabe Soria and Eric Placencia. They were looking forward to a carefree summer.

We built the right combination of

It was a year of upheaval, debauchery, and controversy. Ex-Senator Gary Hart was nailed by the press and forced out of the presidential race. Jim and Tammy Bakker and Jimmy Swaggart were ousted from their churches in the midst of sex scandals. There was the tragic disappearance of Daisy Herrera, the debate over high school newspapers, and the historic Reagan-Gorbachev meeting.

At home, we had our share of excitement. Construction continued through the school, as wings were alternately opened and closed, and the gym grew steadily. Seniors nervously awaited graduating and their launch into the world of adults. Juniors eagerly planned what they were going to sneak into Senior Park, and how. Sophomores, relieved to have gotten through driver's education without crashing the car, were excited to be gaining the independence that came with a driver's license. Freshmen, no longer overwhelmed by high school, made plans for summer school so they could get ahead of their friends. A popular sentiment of the students was expressed by senior Julie Covey — "Thank God it's over — I can't wait to go to the beach!?"

1987-88

The year wasn't all fun and games. It was a growing experience at a time of change. There were tests to study for, papers to write, and personal traumas to overcome. These stumbling blocks were all dealt with as we pushed onward, reaching for our goals. We sought and found the answer to BUILDING THE RIGHT COMBINATION.

— Robin Lyell

Taking a break from their busy day, construction workers appear relaxed. They did their best to use the right combination of bricks in the new wing.

Screaming with joy, Rabae Payne celebrates a volleyball win. The team proved that with the right combination of players they could build a winning season.

Kissing their senior year goodbye are Justin S., Noah G., Wes G., Greg B., Laura L., Mark D., Julie C., Cindy R., Adrian D., Cat D., Cleto N., and Jason S. They were sad to be leaving, but happy to know that they were graduating.

In a tragic accident, Derek Harris' life was lost due to a drunken driver. A gifted artist, Derek aspired to be a commercial artist, and exhibited his talent in drawings of the outdoors or his beloved 1958 bright red Karmann Ghia. His twin brother Dion was very close to him and shared many of his interests, which forged a strong bond between them. As a last gesture, Derek's family planned to continue the restoration of his car, and in this way keep his memory alive.

None shall part us from each other,
One in life and death are we:
All in all to one another —
I to thee and thou to me!
Thou the tree and I the flower —
Thou the idol; I the throng —
Thou the day and I the hour —
Thou the singer; I the song!

It's hard to believe this is actually over, all the work, all the sweat and frustration the book is actually finished.

After such a rocky start, all the missed deadlines, etc., it's nice to know it was all worth it. I'd like to thank everyone for their patience and perseverance, for all the optimism and hard work. Mrs. Sedam, although I tried your patience severely, my heart really was in it. Amanda, don't go crazy, you will not be at the typewriter until you die! John, you can sit at my desk anytime you want. To all of the photographers - Gina, Julie, Regina, Angela, Pete - someday I swear I'll get a photo order in on time!

Tamara, let's use this picture of me on the cover - let's name the book after me! G.I. Joe lives! (in the bushes!) Hey, wanna go to Porterville? To all the others - Jennifer, Kurt, Lisa, Kristine, thank you for putting up with everything - my moods, my stupid answers to decent questions - you know what I mean! I wish you the best for next year's book.

Maria, Amanda, Sarah, Carrie - whichever of you is next year's editor - I know you'll be fantastic!

I'd also like to thank all the students and staff. Without your cooperation, none of this would have been possible. Mr. Grueber, thanks for being my "Dad" and for helping me out so much.

All the coaches and club advisors, thank you for answering the endless-but necessary!-questions. You've all been great. All my friends - thank you for listening to all my moaning and griping, pulling my hair and eyes out, and for just being there. I do hope everyone enjoys this book for many years to come, and I also hope that everyone can recognize themselves at reunion time! It's been fun, I will certainly miss all of you.

Adieu,

Robin

Hey Rich,
No more screwing off in Morales... How sad! It's for the better. Anyway, just help playin' & jammin'. See ya during the summer, and if you & da postman
(Dave) & me want to jam, call me
(323-8514). Until then, adios.

Rodard,
Well, it's been a year of exciting & unpredictable events. Too bad it's gonna all end. No more screwing around with both Ashmore & Morales. But there should be teachers next year that will be brainwashed.
Have a RAD Summer!
See ya later,
Andy Campbell

Rich
Hey well this class was fun and its over have fun over the summer
See ya next year.
F.C.
